CAREY YOUTH AND COLUMBUS MAN KILLED IN MARION CO. ACCIDENTS

TRUCK-TRAIN CRASH EAST OF MARION FATAL

War Plant Truck Driver Killed; Construction Worker at Factory Electrocuted.

Two war workers, a 19-year-old Carey youth and a 21-year-old Columbus man, were fatally injured in accidents in Marion city and county yesterday afternoon and this morning.

A train-truck collision east of Marion brought death to the Carey youth this morning. The Columbus resident was accidentally electrocuted while working at a Marion plant.

Carey Youth Is Train-Truck Victim

Paul Edward Cantleberry 19, of Carey was fatally injured in a truck-train accident at 10:15 this morning at the Williamsport road crossing, one-fourth of a mile northwest of the junction of routes 30-S and 98.

The five-ton dump truck, in which he was hauling crushed stone to the Scioto Ordnance plant, was struck by the westbound Southwestern Limited of the Big Four railroad. The driver was pronounced dead at City hospital where he was taken by the Merle H. Hughes ambulance.

The body was removed to the Hughes funeral home.

Dr. Richard L. Morgan, Marion county coroner, who went to the accident scene, examined the body at the mortuary. Cantleberry suffered a broken jaw, crushed pelvis, fractured legs, and numerous internal injuries, according to Coroner Morgon, who returned an accidental death verdict.

Cantleberry was employed by an uncle, W. F. Barth of near Upper Sandusky, with whom he has been making his home. Barth, a transportation broker, is working for the Merchants Transfer Co. in trucking crushed stone to the ordnance plant.

The victim was thrown from the truck cab and the vehicle was demolished. Cantleberry was the son of Asa Cantleberry, who lives at 305 Glen avenue in Carey and is employed at Fremont. He

Electrocuted At Marion Factory

Mac Phillips, 21-year-old Columbus construction worker, was accidentally electrocuted under unusual circumstances late yesterday afternoon while working on the new $250,000 war production addition to the Commercial Steel Casting Co. on Cheney avenue.

He was atop a 35-foot metal shed and was handling a 14-foot iron rod, which came in contact with the plant's lead power line carrying 13,200 volts. The accident occurred shortly after 5 p. m.

Force of the electrical charge knocked Phillips down, but he did not fall from the roof. He was carried to the ground by fellow workmen, who summoned the fire department inhalator squad and a physician.

Firemen Called

Firemen Charles Erow and Merle Zieg worked over Phillips for nearly 30 minutes. They utilized the department's inhalator and also applied artificial respiration. Dr. Richard L. Morgan, Marion county coroner, later pronounced Phillips dead, returning a verdict of accidental electrocution.

Phillips was an employe of the Columbus Welding Co., one of the firms engaged in construction of the plant addition. The new building on which he was working is located east of the main plant of the Commercial company, is used for pattern storage. The body was removed to the Merle H. Hughes funeral home on East street and Mt. Vernon avenue. Relatives came here late last night to take the body to Piketon county for burial.

Surviving Phillips are his wife, Mrs. Ruth Phillips, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alma Lester Phillips. He was born in Lawrence county, Ky., and his parents are natives of that state. The body has been taken to the J. B. Ferguson funeral home at Plain City.

Red Soldiers Stop Nazi Drive at Bayonet Point

Moscow Reports Germans Thrown Back After Crossing Don on Path to Stalingrad.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 21—German forces which crossed the Don river loop southeast of Kletskaya fought violently for a pathway to Stalingrad today, but field dispatches said strong Russian bayonet charges hurled back the Nazis.

Izvestia declared almost all the Germans who sought to establish bridgeheads along the Don bend were exterminated, but two fresh Nazi divisions moved up.

This report from the government publication came as the army newspaper Red Star said approaches to the river were covered with the bodies of Germans, Italians, Hungarians and Rumanians, even while the crossing effort persisted.

Setbacks to the southern arm of the German pincers aimed at Stalingrad led to the assignment of new planes, tanks and reserve troops to that theater above Kotelnikovski.

Great Area Aflame

A dispatch to Izvestia said a great area was set aflame when German tanks hit a Soviet minefield.

Five German columns of tanks and motorized infantry were reported moving behind aerial and artillery bombardments in the thrust up the railway line northeastward toward Stalingrad.

Reverses again attended the defense of the western and central Caucasus, Russians said, however, that about 700 Germans were slain south of Krasnodar before a further Soviet retreat in that area and that the invaders made "some advance" southeast of Pyatigorsk only at heavy cost.

Red navy warships, on patrol against a possible German attempt to supplement Caucasian operations with an invasion from the Crimea, were credited officially with sinking a 7,000-ton Nazi transport in the Black sea.

Chute Troops Wiped Out

In the western Caucasus, Soviet dispatches said hundreds of Nazi parachute troops descended on the steppes at the approaches to Novorossisk, Black sea naval base, only to be cut down by Kuban Cossacks. Warships of the Soviet Black sea fleet left the Novorossisk base more than a week ago.

Local fighting persisted on the Leningrad front. Counterattacking Red army troops were reported to have forced a river crossing to dislodge the Germans from a settlement. Guerrillas were said to have re-won two villages and killed 80 Germans in that area recently.

Other guerrillas, operating in white Russia behind the invaders' central front lines, killed three German generals, 104 other officers, 650 gestapo agents and 4,717 troops during July, a special government statement said.

CHURCH VOTING ON DELEGATES

Ohio Evangelical Conference To Complete Selections at Today's Session.

Election of delegates to the General Evangelical conference in October occupied this morning's session of the one-hundred and fifth session of the Ohio Evangelical conference at Calvary Evangelical church. The conference opened Wednesday and will close Sunday afternoon with the appointment of pastors.

At the general confreence to be held at Naperville, Ill., in October, action will be taken on the proposed merger of the Evangelical and United Brethren denominations. Election of delegates will be completed this afternoon. Other business on this morning's program included reports of committee chairmen.

Chaplain John J. Price of the Fifth Service command at Fort Hayes, Columbus, conveyed greetings and represented the army chaplains. He was to remain until 3 p. m. interviewing ministers of the conference in behalf of the chaplaincy.

Former Marionite Retires

At the session yesterday afternoon Rev. E. E. Radebaugh, pastor at Loy's Corners, announced his retirement from active ministerial service. He is a former pastor of Calvary church and last year celebrated his fiftieth anniversary in the ministry. He will make his home at Greensburg, O.

A proposal to change the date of the annual conference from August to June was voted down by the assembly and it was voted to open the 1943 conference Aug.

PRESIDENT ORDERS LESS CONTROVERSY

Tells Department Heads To Stop Criticism of Others.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Declaring heads of some government agencies were talking too much, President Roosevelt today directed all government administrators to refrain from public debate of controversial questions of policy and to stop criticizing each other in such controversies.

Mr. Roosevelt said that such airing of divergent opinions in the public press were being seized upon and exploited by enemies of the United Nations. In identical letters to the heads of each department and agency, the President said:

"Disagreements either as to fact or policy should not be publicly aired, but are to be submitted to me by the appropriate heads of the conflicting agencies.

"The policy of the government should be announced by me, as the responsible head thereof. Disagreements as to facts can be resolved, if necessary, by investigations and surveys directed by me.

"Will you please see to it that your particular department and its various bureaus and divisions comply with these instructions."

5 Sons, 1 Stepson of Marion County Mother in Service

The service flag at the home of Mrs. Clara Brammell of Brush Ridge bears six stars, one for each of her five sons and her stepson, all of whom are serving in some branch of the armed forces. With the exception of one, Leonard, who enlisted for service in the air corps from here, all were inducted from their home town, Grayson, Ky. Mrs. Brammell, who is 58 years old, has six sons, two daughters and four stepsons. The family moved here from Grayson, Ky., last June.

Albert Brammell is now at Lexington, Ky., where he is taking a radio course for army service, and Willie Brammell, who has been in service since January this year, was in New York when the family heard from him about two weeks ago. He received his army training at Fort Bliss, Tex.

Avery Brammell was in Camp Edwards, Mass., when he was last heard from about three weeks ago. He was inducted in April and received his army training at Fort Thomas, Ky. Leonard is in New Jersey after enlisting last July. Roy, who entered the navy last February has not been heard from since going into service.

The stepson, Vernol Brammell has been in the army for a number of years and was last heard from in February when he was in camp in Indiana. A son, J. D. Brammell, and two daughters, Mrs. Ben Williams and Miss Helen Brammell make their home in and near Marion.

DIEPPE RAID TOOK BIG TOLL OF NAZI PLANES

RAF and U. S. Fliers Meet Little Resistance in Follow-Up Attack on Nazis.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 21—The clipped wings of the German air force in western Europe was rated by British observers today as the first big dividend of Dieppe.

Allied mastery of the air, they asserted, is complete, not only over Britain and the channel but even deep into enemy territory itself.

These commentators, whose identity could not be disclosed, said this was proved by the extraordinary show of allied airpower yesterday, with virtually no opposition and apparently without the loss of a single plane, over German-held soil.

In daylight, 500 fighters swept across the French coast—where never before had more than 300 planes made such a raid at one time—and a force of the United States' big four-engined flying fortresses rained explosives on the Amiens railway yards without sighting a Nazi fighter over the target.

The smoke of battle has lifted from ruined Dieppe but Britons regarded Wednesday as a day of allied triumph—a victory on the field itself; a help to Soviet Russia, and a step forward in the whole master plan of the United Nations.

A communique summarizing the raid called it a "successful demonstration of coordination of all three services"—land, sea and air.

Here was its profit and loss account:

GAINS

Ninety-one German planes definitely destroyed with "about twice that number probably destroyed or damaged;"

Two gun batteries destroyed;

A radio location station destroyed;

Two small vessels sunk;

Heavy casualties inflicted on the Germans;

Prisoners captured.

LOSSES

Ninety-eight allied planes lost;

The destroyer Berkeley, 904 tons, sunk;

"Fairly large number" of landing craft destroyed;

The loss of some tanks which the attackers were ordered to blow up;

Heavy casualties although there still was no official figure on the invaders' number or their ratio of losses.

The air triumph, generally regarded as the biggest of all the successes, was the outcome of an unplanned battle. Thus, in an RAF-made crisis, British observers said, the Germans lost more than one-third of their operational aircraft in the west in one day and now must divert bombers and fighters from Russia.

Evidence that the Nazis were hit a staggering blow to their bomber strength as well as their

Hitler Started Leningrad Drive Year Ago Today

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Aug. 21 — Adolf Hitler launched his unsuccessful assault upon Leningrad a year ago today, besieging the former capital with 300,000 soldiers.

After 12 months, the city's defenders fight on.

Civilians called into action by Marshal Klementi Voroshilov from the population of 3,000,000 helped Red army divisions to stem the onslaughts.

"Stand firm to the end," was his order, and they did even more.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said the Nazi high command threw 52 infantry divisions, four motorized divisions and four tank divisions against Russia's second city—previously known as St. Petersburg and Petrograd.

The Germans hauled up 6,000 big guns, 19,000 machineguns,

USE OF TANK CARS BANNED

Shipment of Gasoline in 20 States, Including Ohio, Restricted.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — Petroleum Coordinator Harold Ickes today prohibited railroad delivery of automobile gasoline in 20 states in the middle west and southwest in a move to release an estimated 5,000 to 7,000 tank cars for suplying the east.

The states brought under the ban were Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin Minnesota North Dakota and South Dakota.

Await Results

Deputy Coordinator Ralph K. Davies said it "remains to be seen" whether rationing or petroleum would be made necessary in those states as a result of the order.

He added that the diversion of additional tank cars would not aid the east's gasoline rationed motorists since the railroad cars would be used almost exclusively to build up fuel oil stocks in the east, particularly in New England, against the coming of winter.

A spokesman for the coordinator's office said the diverted tank cars would add approximately 100,000 to the more than 1,000,000 barrel daily movement of all types of petroleum into the east.

He said that the east's present needs including allowances of fuel oil for storage with an eye to winter requirements, is in excess of 1,400,000 barrels of petroleum of all types and that the needs for the first three months of next year would be boosted to approximately 1,600,000 barrels daily.

Pipe Lines To Help

Besides the additional tank cars, a pipe line under construction is expected to provide a net gain of 150,000 barrels daily to narrow further the excess of eastern requirements over shipments, the spokesman said.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21—Stoppage of tank car shipments of automobile gasoline in 20 middle and southwestern states will have virtually no effect on Ohio, a leading oil company official predicted today.

Speaking in traditional anonymity, he said the move had been discussed and expected for some time, and that practically all Ohio shipments are moved by truck. He added: "excluding what we sent east, we, for example, shipped exactly two tank cars of gasoline last month."

Plans Nearly Completed for Sunday Amateur Day

Final Arrangements To Be Made Tonight; Leading Contestant for Queen Title Withdraws.

Leading the Marion Amateur Day queen balloting with 5,044 votes, Joan Slover, one of five girls originally named as candidates by Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. employes, announced today that she was no longer a candidate. Announcement of her resignation was made today by George Baum, Hunkin-Conkey employe who is general chairman in charge of Amateur Day arrangements.

Mrs. Slover is the third of the five Hunkin-Conkey candidates to resign. Ruth Botkin and Lois Wildeinn previously announced their resignations. A fourth candidate, Dorothy Davis, also of Hunkin-Conkey, has failed to report, Mr. Baum said. Miss Margaret Gasparik, formerly of Newton Falls, is currently the only Hunkin-Conkey girl remaining in the race. She reported 1,000 new votes today for a total of 1,500. Miss Gasparik is employed in the expediting department of Hunkin-Conkey.

Votes Total Grows

Jayne Bailey, the Holabird & Root contestant, reported 200 votes today to hike her total to 1,683, only 408 votes less than the leader, Marian Huddleston, War Department candidate, reported an additional 303 votes today for a total of 1,278.

Complete reports were not available this morning on the campaign of Miss Phyliss Hecker. At noon today a few of the departments of the Marion Reserve Power Co. had reported 772 votes to James C. Lytle, company tabulator. Miss Hecker is an employe of the firm.

Queen contest voting will end Saturday at 3 p. m. Crowning of Miss Amateur Day will be a highlight of Marion's first annual Amateur Day program Sunday at Lincoln park. The girl leading the voting will be crowned queen and the four other top candidates will form the queen's court of honor.

Amateur Day committeemen will meet tonight at 8 in County Treasurer Marion Hinkin's office to discuss final Amateur Day developments. This will be the

AIR AND NAVAL BATTLE BEGINS OFF SOLOMONS

Enemy Sea Force Assembles in Apparent Attempt To Recapture Islands.

By The Associated Press

Giant U. S. army flying fortresses were reported launching a big attack on Japanese warships off the Solomon Islands today as the enemy apparently moved to strike back at American marines now occupying at least three islands in the southeast of the 900-mile-long archipelago.

A British broadcast indicated the attack was developing and said details were being awaited.

Previous reports from New Zealand had said the enemy was massing naval forces for a counter-blow against the marines in the Tulagi area.

Meanwhile imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted today a small force of American troops effected a landing at dawn Aug. 17 on Makin island in the Gilbert Islands, 2,400 miles southwest of Hawaii, but were "repulsed completely" by the Jap garrison.

The Jap report, unconfirmed elsewhere, said the landing party consisted of about 200 troops.

Seized by the Japs at the outset of the war, the former British-owned Gilbert Islands lie on the equator, just below powerful enemy bases in the Marshal Islands and 1,100 miles northeast of the Solomon Islands.

Tokyo Communique

The full communique follows:

"The Japanese garrison on Makin island at the northern tip of the former British-owned Gilbert Islands, in spite of their numerical inferiority, repulsed completely some 200 American troops who effected a landing at dawn on the island Aug. 17."

In the 16-day-old battle of the Solomons, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air scouts searched the south seas in quest of Jap naval activity amid reports that the enemy was massing new strength for a counterblow against U. S. marines in the Tulagi area.

A navy communique announced last night that the marines now were engaged in mopping up remnants of Jap garrison troops on islands "recently captured" at the eastern end of the 900-mile-long archipelago.

The navy said a Japanese destroyer or cruiser had been set afire by alleged aircraft and declared that bombardments by enemy planes, destroyers and submarines had inflicted only minor damage on allied shore positions.

On Several Islands

The navy's announcement that several islands had been "recently captured" indicated that the marines, cutting through the mountainous jungles, had virtually completed occupation of the strategic bases. The leathernecks were known to have gained beachheads on at least three and perhaps six of the eastern Solomons.

Informed quarters in Auckland, New Zealand, said Jap troops in the Tulagi region were fighting a delaying action in the hope of receiving reinforcements, and declared the outcome still hangs in the balance.

Striking at Japanese supply bases far to the west, allied bombers again attacked enemy forces on Timor island and touched off great explosions in the town of Maobisse, General MacArthur's headquarters announced.

On the China war front, Chinese headquarters announced that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies had recaptured the powerful Jap stronghold of Kwangfeng in Kiangsi province, thereby diminishing the threat of a Japanese invasion of Fukien province.

Mansfield Man's Death in Navy Casualty List

The navy today listed two Ohioans in its tenth casualty list of this war, and gave two other Ohio men as missing, according to The Associated Press. Listed with the deaths was Apprentice Seaman Albert Muir Osborn of the naval reserves, son of William B. Osborn of Mansfield. William Francis Boyce, seaman, first class, son of James Joseph of Chillicothe is listed among the missing. The list covers the period from July 26 to Aug. 12.

CLEVELAND SEEKS OPA AID TO CUT GAS RATE

Mayor Puts East Ohio Case Before Henderson.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21—Cleveland city officials today looked toward the office of price administration for help in the city's rate fight with the East Ohio Gas Co.

Asserting East Ohio was seeking an "inflationary" rate, Mayor Frank J. Lausche asked Price Administrator Leon Henderson to step into the case pending before the Ohio public utilities commission.

The mayor said the gas company—a wholly-owned subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey—contended before the commission that it was entitled to rate averaging 78 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

The company now collects a rate averaging 69 cents, the mayor added, and city council approved a 55-cent rate per 1,000 cubic feet in a 1939 ordinance in litigation.

"This Ohio unit of Standard Oil Co. thus demands a 23 cents per 1,000 cubic feet inflation of the legal ordinance rate," Lausche wrote Henderson.

H. E. Eckes, East Ohio rate engineer, said the company's prime concern is maintaining the gas supply for war industries, and added that Lausche's letter was "a highly unfair reflection on us because the world has entirely changed since our claims were submitted to the utilities commission."

County Party Groups To Organize Monday

CIO BLAMES WPB AIDS FOR SHORTAGES

Asks Nelson To Dismiss Certain Dollar-a-Year Men.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Blaming "certain dollar-a-year men" of the war production board for shortages of critical war materials, CIO members of WPB's labor advisory committee called upon Chairman Donald M. Nelson today for their dismissal.

As WPB officials disclosed that Nelson had directed a review of personnel and elimination of executives considered unsuited to their jobs, the advisory committee's three CIO members made public a resolution protesting that the war effort was "being paralyzed" as a result of inefficient planning.

The petition was signed by Clinton Golden, assistant to the president of the United Steel Workers of America; John Green, president of the CIO international union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, and Walter Reuther, vice president of the United Automobile and Aircraft Workers of America.

Urging dismissal of other executives who, the resolution claimed, "are responsible for similar shortages in their respective divisions," the group appealed to Nelson to reinstate Frederick L. Libbey, engineering consultant, discharged Wednesday.

Libbey, the CIO committee members declared, "was fired for telling the truth" in a report "exposing the failure of the dollar-a-year WPB iron-steel branch men." Board officials, however, said the engineer was discharged for discussing a confidential report on iron and steel operations with outsiders and for other personnel reasons.

Meantime, WPB officials who declined to be quoted by name said that Nelson's order for a general housecleaning as a part of his "get tough" policy brought reports that resignations or dismissals in various branches of WPB were imminent.

There was indication, too, the sources said, that Nelson was planning a showdown with the armed services on priority powers within the next 36 hours.

Important War Job Is Given State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The Ohio division of vital statistics has been given an important war job.

It involves the sampling of death certificates with a view to detecting unfavorable health trends which might arise from harder work and hurried living.

Officials said that Ohio was among vital war work areas and thereby affected particularly by the altered national economy. In these areas, special indices based on a sample of death reports each month will be watched for any significant tendencies.

Based on state reports, the census bureau will prepare month- bulletins on the health of the country at war. The bureau, intending to put the plan of action into effect shortly, suggested that death certificates offered a valuable source of public health information because of the completeness with which they were collected.

These certificates cover, for instance, the cause of death as well as the age, sex, race and occupation of the deceased.

The reasons for the check are numerous. In war time, changes affecting public health come with rapidity and violence. Hundreds, even thousands, of workers migrate to already crowded areas. Soldiers assemble in huge camps in rural areas, and sanitary facilities are overloaded.

Women and older men go into the factories. Working hours are long. Housing shortages are acute and trailer camps appear. Many doctors enter the military services. Worries multiply and diets change.

"The present plan," said the bureau in a statement, "is designed to provide an index of the repercussions of such changes on basic health conditions, though it will not permit the spotting of local epidemics or provide detailed statistics for small areas.

"Danger limits will be set for certain diseases in each broad region of the United States. These limits will be based on the census bureau's records of deaths for past years. When the bureau's month-by-month graphs of deaths from a disease pass the danger limit in one region, then some action will be indicated.

"Generally, the next step will be to make a more complete investigation to discover whether the increase can be accounted for on some grounds other than those of a change in health conditions. If it cannot be accounted for thus, then the public health authorities and officials concerned with protection and utilization of the nation's manpower resources will be enabled to act to remedy the situation."

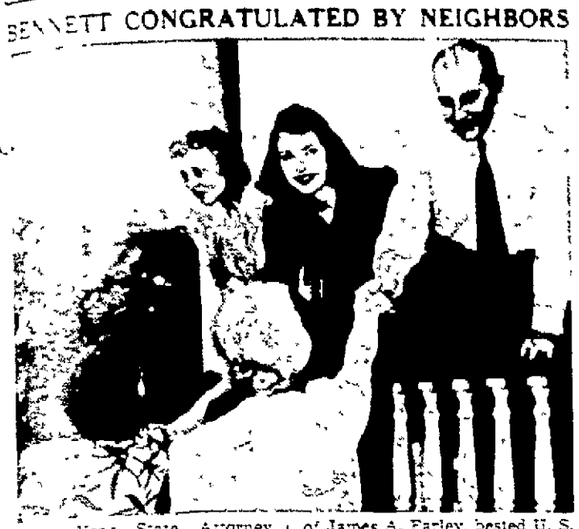
BENNETT CONGRATULATED BY NEIGHBORS



New York State Attorney General John J. Bennett is congratulated by neighbors in Brooklyn home after winning an overwhelming victory over Democratic opponents for governor of New York state. Bennett, choice of James A. Farley, bested U. S. Senator James M. Mead, supported by President Roosevelt, by a 523-to-393 vote of the Democratic convention. With Bennett on the porch of the home are his wife and his daughter, Mary Lou. (International News Phonephoto)

Three-Way Race for N. Y. Governorship Is Forecast

ALP Diversion Seen After Farley Wins Victory in Split with Roosevelt Over Candidate.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—A three-way race for the New York governorship loomed today with the prospects among American Labor party leaders believed likely to enter its own candidate because of the nomination by the Democrats of State Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr.

Leaders of the Labor party, which convenes here tomorrow, announced Saturday that if Bennett is the Democratic nominee, U. S Senator James M. Mead they would name an independent state ticket headed by Joseph D McGoldrick, New York City comptroller.

The stand was strengthened after Bennett's triumph yesterday when ALP left-wingers denounced the attorney general as a fascist and voted to support McGoldrick against Bennett and former New York District Attorney Thomas E Dewey, who is expected to win the Republican nomination when that party meets at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Monday.

Loses ALP Support

The apparent loss of the ALP, whose vote in 1938 provided the margin of victory for the Democrats, was the price Democratic State Chairman James A. Farley had to pay in guiding Bennett to success against such powerful head supporters as President Roosevelt and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman

After one of the bitterest campaigns in Democratic history—a battle that split the party wide open and ended in its first convention floor-fight in 24 years—Farley's power was proved by the official delegate vote of 623 for Bennett against 393 for Mead, later made unanimous even though only 509 ballots were required for the nomination.

Ramifications of the state Democratic battle were such that senators in Washington were split over its significance—some expressed belief it would boost Farley's strength in the 1944 presidential picture; others felt his opposition to the President's wishes would boomerang against him later.

Farley, who managed two of Roosevelt's three presidential campaigns, steered Bennett's candidacy for the nomination through a long and bitter struggle for delegates.

Victory for Farley

The result was viewed generally in political circles as making Farley the decisive power in the party's state organization. Some observers believed it also decided control of New York's powerful delegation to the national Democratic convention in 1944, although Roosevelt has been reported to feel no such issue was involved.

Convention reports persisted before the nomination that presidential support of Bennett, who probably will be pitted against Republican Thomas E Dewey in the governorship race, may be restricted to an election-day vote for him. Dewey, who lost by a narrow margin to Governor Herbert H. Lehman in 1938, is expected to be renominated by Republicans next week at Saratoga

Bennett, first elected as attorney general in 1930 during Roosevelt's administration as governor of New York, announced for the governorship immediately after Governor Lehman renounced a fifth-term nomination.

In Washington, no comment was immediately forthcoming from the White House on the Bennett victory.

Representative Sol Bloom, New York, said "the convention has spoken and all the Democrats in New York state should get together and elect the ticket."

Commenting on President Roosevelt's part in the contest, Bloom said that as a resident of New York state the President certainly had a right to express his views as to the Democratic candidates

MAN HELD HERE AS BIGAMIST IS SUED

Divorce Decree Asked by Mrs. Winola Reed.

Charges of misconduct and neglect were made in a divorce action filed in common pleas court today by Mrs Winola Reed of Pleasant street against Forest Woodrow Reed, who is being held in county jail, accused of bigamy

Asserting that she and Reed were married Nov. 4 1934 at Viena, W Va., she alleges that he then was already married to Martha Carpenter Reed He left Marion Nov. 16, 1941 and from May to August of this year has resided in Cleveland with Miss Leola Cloycraft as husband and wife, the petition relates.

Mrs Reed seeks a divorce, restoration of her former name of Winola Buchanan, and alimony. She is represented by Ralph E Carhart. The defendant was arrested in Cleveland last week on a bigamy charge filed in municipal court and he has been held in county jail since he was returned here Sunday.

Reed was slated to be taken to the office of a Marion physician today to undergo a preliminary screening examination preparatory to induction for military service If he passes the examination he will be sent to an army induction center either Aug 27 or Sept 5 by the Hardin county board under which he is registered

Induction for armed services will save him from prosecution on the bigamy charge. Mrs Reed having agreed to withdraw the charge if he is accepted

Poll Shows That Sizable Number of Voters Believe We Can Win War in Air

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 21—With all-American bomber squadrons stepping up their aerial assault on Germany, the belief that the war may be won virtually by air attacks alone is gaining considerable public following throughout the United States.

While the majority of American citizens with opinions on this subject still feel that victory will depend on an integrated attack by land, sea and air forces, nevertheless as many as four in every 10 hold the view that the allies may be able to win by smashing the enemy from the air alone.

The question of the relative effectiveness of air power is, obviously, one for military experts to decide, and only time and experience can settle whether air attacks alone, or the more orthodox combination of land, sea or air power, will bring victory. But it is clear that recently published popular books, particularly "Victory Through Air Power" by Alexander de Seversky, emphasizing the use of air power, have begun to make a marked impression on public thinking.

The Institute put to voters a question designed to bring out their attitudes toward the idea that if the Allies build a strong enough air force they may be able to win the war virtually by air attacks alone.

Sentiment divided as follows in the survey:

Agree	40%
Disagree	49
Undecided	11

The names of Major de Seversky, Al Williams and other aviation experts were frequently mentioned by voters in giving their views on the question.

Those voters who believe in the capacity of air power to bring victory argue that results may be achieved much faster by air attack than by land or sea; that constant huge air bombardments will break down enemy morale; and that because enormous Allied shipping losses may hamper an overseas land offensive, "we had better try something different."

"An airplane can drop a bomb that will do as much damage as 1,000 men," says one voter. "Why not save the men and use the airplane?"

Those who doubt that victory can be achieved through chief reliance on air power give two reasons. The first is that while bombers can destroy, only ground troops can seize and hold enemy territory, and that therefore only a well-integrated attack by all fighting arms can bring complete victory. The second argument most often cited is that "Germany tried to bomb England to defeat and didn't succeed."

The Public Ahead

In the past the public has been ahead of military experts, and ahead of Congress, in appraising the value of air power. In March, 1940, when the Army asked for money to buy 1,200 planes to keep its supply at the same level, Congress appropriated enough for 50. At that same time, the Institute was finding that more than 90 per cent of American voters were calling for a bigger air force. Furthermore, the majority were willing to foot the bill to get it.

For every bullet we don't turn out, an axis bullet gets a chance to kill another American boy! For every gun you keep from production, there's a facist gun to take aim at your own liberty! For every tank and plane that's slowed down in production because of a shortage of materials, there's an enemy tank, plane or ship to blow up one belonging to the United Nations. How about it folks? What will it be for you? Hats off and many thanks from unscrupulous, murderous, knife-in-the-back enemies? Or are you going to search your home and property without another lost minute—so that you can help put enough scrap into the war production melting-pot to make a scrap heap of the axis?

CHAPTER NINE

Playing Safe

HELEN turned, with a start, when Sandy came up to her. There were faint blue smudges under her eyes.

"So you're getting breakfast," he said cheerily. "How did you sleep?"

"Terrible," she confessed. "I kept hearing things, imagining things. I don't know what. Then those birds . . ."

"You can nap in the canoe today, if you like," Sandy said briskly. "Gil up?"

"He found a path leading toward the village and said he was going to do some sleuthing. He left almost an hour ago."

"I'll get a couple of those mangoes," Sandy said.

Since he thought it inadvisable to build a fire they breakfasted once more on cold victuals from the hotel kitchen at Onha. Helen chattered with more vivacity than she had ever displayed in Sandy's acquaintance with her. She appeared to be almost happy, he reflected. It did not occur to him that their little tete a tete in the intimacy of the bush had anything to do with her good spirits. For his own thoughts scarcely touched her at all. His mind was fixed upon the day ahead, its hazards and possibilities. The little figure of Tyra Fleming appropriated a good share of his meditations.

They were still eating when Gil returned. He stowed his machete in his canoe and related his adventures.

"I crept up to the edge of the village and watched from a screen of bushes. I could see the river where the dug-outs were beached. Before long a group of Indians trooped down to the water. Miss Fleming was with them. There was some palaver on the bank and finally the girl climbed into a canoe. I didn't wait to see the start but there's no doubt that she's on her way again."

Sandy nodded. "Did you see anything to make you believe she suspects we're following?"

"I wasn't near enough to hear the lingo," Gil said. "But I did notice that Miss Fleming seemed to be giving the Indians instructions about something. She gesticulated down-river and they jabbered excitedly."

"I hope she doesn't have them set a trap," Sandy observed, although he could not imagine any person of his own race and creed being as ruthless as that, no matter what the circumstances. "Just to play safe, we'll give that village a wide berth."

The Drums

Presently they were on the river once more, gliding between the lush banks. With the sun slanting down upon the green tops of the trees some of the witchery of the night before was dissipated, but not all. They moved now through a dryad's world of tall manaca palms and sprawling banyans, of thickly matted jungle dripping with orchids that sometimes met overhead to form an archway of breath-taking loveliness. Bright-plumaged birds flew among the trees, but they were not so noisy now that day had advanced.

In the river Sandy saw fish, brilliantly colored like the birds, and made a note to try his luck that evening if there was opportunity.

They had not gone far past the village where Tyra had spent the night when Sandy was aware of a dull reverberation of sound in the air unlike any of the bush noises. Gil heard it, too, for he called to Sandy.

While they held the dug-outs steady in the current, they listened.

"Sounds like signal drums," Sandy tendered, after a moment. "But I didn't know the Indians in this part of the country used drums for anything except fiestas."

"Maybe there is a fiesta close by," Gil said. "But I agree with you that it sounds more like a signal."

"Anyhow, we can't do anything about it," Sandy observed, and started on.

The drums continued at intervals for several hours, then stopped.

In spite of the shaded banks it was warm work keeping the dug-outs breasting the current. More and more often, too, it was necessary to pole over shallow stretches. This took time and patience as well as skill. Both Sandy and Gil perspired freely. Early in the day they had shed everything but their shorts.

When the siesta hour approached they found a shaded sandy bar and beached there to have a bite of lunch and to stretch their cramped muscles.

Helen looked uncomfortable in her silk blouse and tight breeches, but when the men suggested that she change to something cooler, she insisted she was all right.

"I've been thinking," she said. "You men are doing all the work, so far. I am going to look after the fooddo the cooking and tend to the supplies."

Gil was quick with a retort. "Lady, lady, you don't know what you're doing to a couple of old bush rats. Lobster a la Newburg with a dash of Crepes Suzettes on the side! I can practically get my teeth around them already."

"Don't laugh," Helen said. "Because I'm serious. Of course I'm not a first-class cook. But I do know something about it. And I can learn."

"On black beans and rice! I think you have something there," Gil commented.

"Maybe you'll be surprised," Helen said, slanting a coy glance up at him.

"More power to you," Gil said, dropping his bantering tone. "I think you're a good sport, if you ask me."

Nobody asked Gil, but Helen's look indicated that she would enjoy having some commendation from Sandy. Sensing her need, that familiar feeling of being annoyed assailed Sandy and his gorge rose in resistance. Contrarily he remained silent.

After a moment Helen broke forth a sigh and Gil changed the subject.

Toward sunset Sandy sighted tiny village. As he turned in the bank a few Indians came down to meet him. Some children were among them, but as they saw Helen in her white clothes, they vanished into the bush like a covey of partridges.

Sandy alighted and, in a Spanish patois, asked for the headman.

An Indian somewhat taller than the others answered, "Senor, I am headman of this village. I am the Chimas."

"Have you seen two canoes pass here today?" Sandy asked.

"We saw them not an hour ago," the headman said carefully. "They did not stop but if they had we would have warned them not to go farther."

"Does this village lie on the fringe of the Land of Spirits?" Sandy inquired.

"Si, senor, the Land of Spirits is but across the river, there."

Sandy all but jumped as the Indian pointed dramatically. His words were so full of awe that Sandy had to look twice to be certain that the opposite bank really looked like any other part of the river.

"There's not a chance of American shipbuilders utilizing a major part of all these facilities after the war. I'm usually adverse to making forecasts. But there will be such a large tonnage of both naval and merchant ships built to meet the war needs that there is bound to be serious reduction in ship construction as soon as the war is won. That's why the government is having to finance most of all this expansion."

Work Too Hard? Then See How it Paid Peggy Mayer

PEGGY L. MAYER
Real life Alger girl

By ADELAIDE KERR
Wide World Features Writer

Peggy L. Mayer hit the jackpot of success the hard way.

"If you're feeling overworked, run down and tired, perhaps you should hear about her.

Two years ago she was a $10-a-week barker in a Chicago bargain basement Today she is a radio script writer drawing 250 American dollars every Saturday Five years from now she hopes to the well-known author of The Great American Novel She is 24

Peggy had finished a certain amount of schooling in St Louis, where she was born, when her lawyer father died. She was an ambitious youngster with level gray eyes a shock of short chestnut hair and a yearning to be a second Bernhardt. So, after some dramatic training, she came to Chicago to get a job in soap opera There, in the interest of eating three times a day she worked as the barker in the bargain basement as a soda jerk, as a '26 girl' at a dice table while she tried to get—and keep—a radio acting job

"But I was just no good" she said "And they told me so So I made up my mind to write scripts"

By working like a slave at it nights she managed to develop sufficient technique to make an uncertain living free-lancing scripts.

When she had saved $50 she took the train for New York, where her mother was visiting. By dint of making scores of telephone calls and running all over town she landed two jobs ghost-writing daily 15-minute radio serials and a third as secretary to Carlo de Angelo, radio producer

Her big chance came when de Angelo was searching for a script writer for "The Story of Bess Johnson." Peggy told him she could write scripts and he said, "Then do me one tonight."

Peggy left his office at seven, raced home, ghosted her two scripts by midnight and spent the rest of the night on de Angelo's assignment. At nine the next morning she turned in a quarter-hour soap opera script and a story outline for 26 weeks

De Angelo was impressed. But he had to know whether she could meet deadlines So he ordered another script a day for the next five days.

Most people would have wilted right there. Peggy just cinched in her belt. For the next five days she did her day's work, and spent the night on her ghost-writing jobs and de Angelo's scripts.

By the end of the second day she had the jitters with indigestion and fatigue. She worked with a hot water bottle at her stomach, and ice bag on her head, a bottle of "pep" tablets beside her and tears of fatigue and desperation rolling down her grimed face.

Her room-mate hung over her crying "You've got to stop. You'll kill yourself. Your mother will come and find you dead"

At the end of the fifth night Peggy turned in her last script

"How do you feel?" asked her room-mate anxiously

"Fine," said Peggy And went out on her face on the floor.

After they had brought her to and she finished a fine fit hysterics, they gave her the script writing job at $250 a week Now all she does is write in the mornings, work on her novel in the afternoons and learn to fly weekends

Do you still feel tired?

NAVAL BATTLE OFF PORTUGAL

Lisbon Reports Raging Engagement of Planes and Ships at Tip of Cape.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

LISBON, Aug. 21—A report from Algarve province tonight said a fierce naval and air battle was raging off Cape Saint Vincent the southwest tip of Portugal

The dispatch did not say who was fighting, nor gave particulars of the reported engagement

Cape St Vincent is famous in naval history as the scene of many encounters, notably a British victory over the Spanish Feb 11, 1797

It was in that battle that Lord Nelson established his fame when in command of one of the 15 British ships he left the line without orders and interposed his vessel to prevent the escape of the Spanish fleet of 27 men-of-war

The British commander Sir John Jervis, was named "the Earl of St Vincent as a result of the victory

Manpower Rationing

WAR MANPOWER COMMISSION CHAIRMAN McNUTT'S restless stirrings over his growing responsibilities have produced nothing so far but comment. But day by day the need for action increases, however, and one day soon something will be done about it.

Mr. McNutt's latest proposal, calling for an end of army and navy recruiting, heralds the beginning of the Great Transition in the field of manpower, where it may come even sooner than in the fields of materials and commodities.

In essence, what Mr. McNutt wants is the power to ration what people do as part of the general pattern of government control over the things people work with and use. Plainly, as long as men may decide on their own initiative to join the army or the navy, instead of waiting to be drafted or perhaps deferred because they are needed somewhere else, the pattern is incomplete.

It is significant that no one questions the ultimate necessity of doing what Mr. McNutt says will have to be done to maintain war production, which includes giving the government authority over workers as well as fighting men. The only question remaining is whether Mr. McNutt as an individual may have come to his responsibility too soon, meaning that someone else may get the credit for administering what he foresaw too soon and too often for the sake of his prestige.

There Is a Limit

BRIG. GEN. Leonard P. Ayres has added to growing consciousness of the nation's limitations in raw materials a warning that if and when the confusion in materials has been reached there still will be a limit imposed by transportation. The railroads, he concedes, have been doing a splendid job, but they can not continue to transport more freight indefinitely, because their own possibilities of expansion are about exhausted.

Ultimately, in other words, the production of war material in the United States must level off. While that is obvious, it nevertheless is true that it has not been recognized. Much public talking has proceeded on the assumption that United States production was what some spokesmen for government or industry said it was. In the final analysis, production is what transportation, materials and manpower permit it to be.

There is no better reason for saying the United States can do anything it needs to do in production than there is for saying that Great Britain, Germany, Japan, Italy, China and Russia can do anything they need to do—and their limitations are well nown. This is a great country. It has more productive capacity than any other, but eventually it can reach the limit of its capacity, however great that may be.

Loose Talk in Selective Service

A PREDICTION by a selective board spokesman that a general draft of married men under 45 with dependents is coming soon is one more example of something done repeatedly in government that should be stopped.

There are too many spokesmen doing too much advance warning, without taking the effect of their warnings into account. Whether properly or not, government spokesmen are taken seriously.

The fact is, however, that most of the time they're talking through their hats. Either they don't know, or they are generalizing. In any event, the only result is to create needless excitement.

Ultimately, unless the war stops sooner than expected, many men with dependent children will be called for military service. Some have been called already. But it won't happen until more desirable and more available material has been exhausted. In some draft boards, that may be a long time. In others, it may be very soon. But there is no selective service official with sufficient knowledge to generalize about it without causing a great deal of trouble that could have been averted by talking about something else not subject to so many varieties of misunderstanding.

Congressional Second Thought

WHILE congressional second thought on payment of living allowances to dependents of service men now instead of a few hours before election day is better, it may be too late to relieve the needs of beneficiaries.

Here was a typical example of the reason for a decline in legislative prestige. Some congressmen did not know and others did not care that a handful of manipulators had postponed payment of living allowances till next November—plainly a useful date for winning friends and influencing voters.

Columnist Paul Mallon took the lead in starting a cry of "Shame!" Caught red-handed, both houses reversed themselves and voted to pay the money immediately. If they're right now, they must have been wrong in the first place. Yet, unless they had been embarrassed by exposure, their original mistake never would have been admitted.

News Behind the News

Solomon Islands Blow Seen as Opening of Big Campaign with Tokyo as Goal.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The first great offensive American action, the invasion of the Solomons, has not been fully reported to the public for a very good, but unstated, reason.

It was not a battle, but the beginning of the impatiently awaited campaign.

It was not like Midway or the Coral Sea, a battle which terminated when the action was over, but a hard, daring, costly, successful opening engagement.

The details, if officially told, would let the Japs know just where and how it will be continued.

My own personal guess, however, is that the next big stop will be Rabaul, the center of all Jap bases in the southwestern Pacific area—and the last stop will be Tokyo.

Also, from the cautious communiques and other verified reports of the last 13 days, a broad general picture of what happened, may now be presented without divulging any military information.

Skillful, deceptive American propaganda enabled the blow to be struck with devastating surprise.

While the invasion force of protective cruisers, destroyers and submarines (huddled around our transports) was steaming secretly toward the Tulagi area, the reports from General MacArthur's Australian headquarters were loudly, and almost savagely, bewailing the fact he had no cargo ships available with which to start an offensive. He was pictured as tearing out his hair because Washington would give him no power.

This planned trick led Tokyo to expect anything except what happened.

The invasion force already had arrived at appointed landing places, and was actually disembarking marines, as well as other American and Australian forces, before the Japs knew what was up. Their story, and the one from Berlin, that a Jap submarine detected our armada steaming toward its objective Aug. 5, the day before the landings, and blasted it to pieces in a storm with land-based planes, are obvious phonies.

There was no major air or sea engagement until the night battle of Aug. 8-9, the very bitter and heavy engagement, in which our losses were considerable—far less than the 41 ships claimed by the Japs, but yet more than the official concession here so far of one cruiser sunk and five ships damaged.

This night battle will be shown as one of the most dramatic naval engagements in all history, when the details are divulged. Jap cruisers and submarines, having learned of the landings, which were started 12 hours or more earlier, dashed for the disembarkation points, in an effort to wreck our transports, which were then still landing troops. They never reached their destination.

Our naval forces intercepted them off some distance from the transports, and there followed such a melee of fighting men-of-war in darkness as has never been fought before.

The Japs said the action was so closely fought that one of our cruisers actually ran into one of theirs, in the darkness. It could be.

We have admitted only "close range fighting," which brings a vivid scene of dozens of cruisers, destroyers and submarines on both sides, groping around in darkness, without any assistance from airplanes, flashing on their searchlights at the slightest sight of dark objects, and then letting go whole broadsides at point blank range. Whoever fired first was the winner.

Losses naturally were very heavy on our side and theirs, but what counts is the indisputable fact that since that night, 12 days ago, not a sign of a Jap surface ship was seen in those waters.

No Apology for Losses

We got the Solomons. They retreated. No apology for our losses therefore seems warranted even if they came anywhere near the Jap claims.

No mention has been made in any communiques about airfields in that vicinity. There is supposed to be one on the British golf course at Tulagi, and another one good enough for bombers on Guadacanal.

Truth is, the Japs had many small fields strewn around, not only in Guadacanal and the Florida islands, but particularly in Bougainville and Buka to the northwest.

Sparseness of news for the past 10 days can be attributed, no doubt, to the fact the marines and other forces are cleaning out the Japs from the mountains and jungles, in areas already occupied, and extending their conquest island by island. They probably already have moved land-based planes in with them, and when these are once established, they will be prepared to move on to the next spots better prepared with bombing power and plane protection.

MacArthur aided our sea and land forces in the area, not only with his publicity trick, but by daily hurling his bombers at Rabaul, far to the northwest in New Britain island. At this main Jap base he hit the airdrome and sunk at least two 15,000 ton ships and several smaller ones, thereby preventing the Japs from aiding their defeated comrades in the Tulagi area (as is proved by the fact none of their surface ships have been around since Aug. 9).

This is the end of the winter season in that tropical clime, and the whole action has been carried on during constant thunder storms and heavy rains, which hindered operations and obscured the results.

These natural hinderances, plus the necessities of official silence, and grotesque Tokyo exaggerations, cannot, however, obscure the fact that the opening of our Pacific offensive was a grand American achievement.

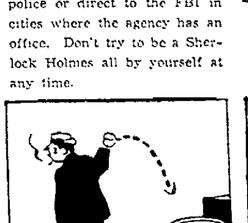
THE FBI TELLS YOU

How To Nip Sabotage

Wide World Features

HERE is a 5-point program recommended by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to the American public on how the private citizen can help stop any effort at wartime sabotage. Any suspicions, however, should be reported to local police or direct to the FBI in cities where the agency has an office. Don't try to be a Sherlock Holmes all by yourself at any time.

1. Watch for suspicious objects in rubbish heaps or out-of-the-way corners, especially in or near a factory, telephone exchange, railroad station. They may be bombs.



2. Watch out for persons throwing matches in places where fire would endanger war activity. Those matches may be aimed at inflammable materials by a would-be arsonist.

3. Be on the lookout for persons who seem to have plenty of money, yet have no visible means of livelihood. Their income may spring from a Berlin source.

4. Be suspicious of generous strangers who frequent bars near shipyards, factories or arsenals. Sometimes they're trying to loosen tongues with that extra drink.

5. Remember a discharged employe may hold a grudge. View suspiciously any former worker hanging around your plant. An Axis agent might help him "get even."

IT'S STILL THERE, ADOLF!

The Invasion Threat To America

We're Warned To Be on Guard Against Jap Drive from Aleutians.

(The following story is by Sam Jackson, Wide World Features writer who toured Alaska extensively shortly before the outbreak of war between the United States and Japan.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21—Events in Bering Sea indicate that America must be on guard against a Japanese landing on the mainland of North America.

The stepping-stone strategy of invasion which the enemy employed so successfully in the bright sunlight of the tropics might be much easier when hidden by the dense fogs of Alaskan waters.

Japanese are in possession of the tip of the bleak Aleutian island chain with a force estimated all the way from "twenty or thirty tents" to 25,000 men. Considering the size and terrain of the occupied islands, this latter figure is incredible unless the Japanese are assembling a real invasion force and quartering the men on troopships.

Our navy has bombarded, sunk and battered enemy vessels at Kiska island, but has not dislodged the invaders.

The most disquieting report is one from fishermen that the Mikado's forces have taken over the four Pribilofs, long famed as the source of the finest sealskins in the world. The U. S. navy says it has no information to support these reports. The islands are undefended and have a population of only 412 natives and 14 government agents.

This might indicate that instead of heading for the populous southeastern part of Alaska, the Japanese plan to seize the mouths of the Yukon and Kuskokwim rivers or to take over the immense Seward peninsula and its tiny "metropolis" of Nome.

U. S. Bases in Southeast

To an Alaskan such a move would be described as an attack on the "second and fourth judicial districts." The other two making up the mighty territory are in the southeast and account for 83 per cent of Alaska's population and most of its commerce.

It is in this latter section which is protected by the big naval bases at Sitka and Kodiak, the main army base at Anchorage and various air bases and smaller installations which are a matter of military information.

This area is sharply divided from the northern coastline by the 500-mile-long Alaska peninsula, which tapers off into the broken island chain of the Aleutians. North of the peninsula, and fronting out of Bering Sea, is a desolate broken coastline stretching hundreds of miles up into the Arctic regions.

Dutch Harbor Is Blocked

The only town of any size is Nome, population 1,500, of which two-thirds are white.

The principal deterrent to major enemy incursions is the base which Uncle Sam established for just that purpose—the navy's Dutch Harbor on the island of Unalaska. From there, ships and planes can range northward toward the Pribilofs and Nome or south and east toward Alaska's major towns.

Unless they have been effected recently and secretly, there are no defenses on the mainland coast from the Alaska peninsula northward. Indeed, the shoreline would seem indefensible against individual landing parties. The territory is too vast.

If the Japanese strike northward it will have to be soon. In October, the Yukon and the ocean waters freeze. At this season they are open and there are also 24 hours of daylight.

The most optimistic view of Dutch Harbor cannot picture it as an effective interceptor to a landing force. Bering Sea is as large as the Gulf of Mexico. And in fogs so thick that a mariner often cannot see 50 yards ahead the odds against a naval patrol encountering an enemy invasion force are terrific. A thousand to one.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Aug. 21, 1932.

Miss Margaret E. Morrow and Arthur S. Zachman were united in marriage at Calvary Evangelical church by Rev. Robert Stubbs, pastor of Community church at Whitefish Bay, a suburb of Milwaukee, Wis. Rev. Stubbs, a cousin of the bridegroom, was assisted in conducting the ceremony by Rev. E. Radebaugh, pastor of the Calvary church.

Marion friends were present at the celebration of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Brady at their home near Edison.

E. R. Bondley was elected president of Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veteran's in the annual picnic of that organization and Betsy Ross auxiliary held at Fort Morrow.

Mrs. Sarah Eliza McGinley, 34, died at her home on Barnhart street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Aug. 21, 1922.

President Harding sounded a call for military preparedness, "not that war can be expected," the news dispatch reported quoting the President, but "solely for American preservation and the continuity of the American republic." Speaking to 1,000 student soldiers from Camp Meade, Md., who passed in review before him, the President declared, "If I had my way, instead of 28,000 in training camps now, there would be more than 100,000 annually studying and preparing for military service. Not that they would be expected to be called upon for such service, but to keep the nation prepared." He added that the United States at that time did not contemplate an armed campaign in any direction. With the President in reviewing the troops were Mrs. Harding, Secretary of War Weeks and General Pershing and staff.

Mrs. R. H. Breese, 40, died at her home on Hane avenue.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Toombs of Smith street.

The feature picture at the Marion theater was "The Song of Life," starring Richard Headrick, Gaston Glass, Grace Darmond and Georgia Woodthrope. At the Grand Jewel Carmen had the leading role in "The Silver Lining."

Miss Helen C. Waddell and Harold J. Grigsby were united in marriage at Epworth M. E. parsonage by Dr. Jesse Swank.

Miss Mildred Duffey and Glenn Duffey of South Prospect street were visiting their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Duffey of Toledo.

Miss Ethel Barnhill of Blaine avenue returned from a week's visit with relatives and friends in Columbus.

Daily Bible Thought

The world can be saved only by means of millions of men who obey and imitate our Savior: "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, Mighty God, the everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace."—Isaiah 9:6.

No Bed of Roses

Our Government Fails To Set Good Example for Employers, Postoffice Situation Is Bad.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAVE ALREADY told you about the economic plight of the regular postoffice employes who have not had an increase in wage in 17 years and no bonus or other form of remuneration to meet the rising cost of living. Now I must tell you about another group of workers in the same department who are in even worse case.

I refer to the substitutes. These are the men who constitute the second line behind the regulars of the department. They are of course highly essential to the postal service because they must learn their business and be ready to step in as experienced hands when the regulars fall out.

But unfortunately they seem to be largely regarded by the government. Their situation is most deplorable at this time. The substitute is really the forgotten man of the postoffice department. He has only semi-official status and working conditions are governed by no rules.

The vast majority of postal workers enter the service as substitutes. As such they serve anywhere from a few months to as much as 10 years, or until their names are reached on the list for appointment. The substitute earns 65 cents per hour and does the same work for which the regular gets a dollar. Whether his services are required or not, the sub must report for duty each morning, as a rule at 6 o'clock. He never knows how long he must be required to work and does not receive any pay for the time he "swings."

SUBSTITUTES often spend 12 hours at a station and are paid for only three or four hours work. Men have been known to labor three months or more without a Sunday off and no holidays.

They must work a year and sometimes more and three before they become eligible for vacations and sick leave. As one expressed it to me, they either "starve from lack of work or become physical wrecks from too much of it."

Until four months ago appointments to the regular force in New York City were bestowed at the average of about 50 a month, then came an order from Washington "freezing" the list, ostensibly for 30 days. That period has long since elapsed and the list continues frozen. In the meantime, perhaps to short-circuit demands for a pay raise, the regulars are forced to work overtime against their wishes. I am told that this further depresses the earning of the subs.

Until the recession among the postoffice employes may mean additional regulars will be made, for the duration of the war, and as I can imagine this thought is somewhat consoling to the substitutes who have been hoping for advancement. One of the bills now before congress designed to relieve the plight of the postoffice employes is the Scanlan bill which provides that all regular vacancies shall be filled by the promotion of substitutes. The subs would like to see this passed.

STILL ANOTHER class of employes of the department who seem to deserve more consideration are those in the lower wage brackets—the laborers, custodians, charmen and charwomen and others. If private industry employs men and women at the scale of wages imposed on these persons by the government there would be a squawk to high heaven and maybe legislative action.

Some of them get only $500 a year. Under a recent bill voted them an increase, they will have a tough time meeting the cost of living. As just one example, in private industry a window cleaner gets $340 and $45 per week. In the postoffice this type of worker has been receiving $1,320 per year and under the new bill will draw only $1,440 a year. It is small wonder that many postoffice employes are turning eagerly to private industry in these times.

The Solomons

Wide World Features

The Solomon Islands, located in the center of Melanesia, east of New Guinea, now scene of mortal U. S.-Jap combat, were lost for 200 years after their discovery by Spaniard Alvaro Mendana in 1567. Louis Antoine de Bougainville, a French navigator, found them again in 1768. Bearing his name is Bougainville, largest (120 miles long, 35 wide) of the Solomon chain of 10 large, innumerable smaller islands. Heavily forested volcanic mountains give the Solomons rugged beauty; coral reefs and frequent earthquakes add a sinister note. To lovers of European civilization—until a decade ago natives were pirated to Australia and the Islands for forced labor—the 150,000 inhabitants of the Solomons, mostly black-skinned Melanesians, have clung to small tribal units. Some still are head-hunting cannibalistic. Chief product is copra, dried meat of the coconut. Capital prior to the Jap invasion was Tulagi.

Sub Is Place To Study Philosophy

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Torpedoes directed at a sound philosophy ought to be rather effective. The combination of submarines and metaphysics is not as paradoxical as it seems.

That is the word of the Rev. Edward A. Grath, S. J., head of the department of philosophy at Marquette University, who reports the strangest request he has ever received—from an ensign on submarine duty for a book on philosophy.

The ensign is Edward F. Sullivan, Jr., of Sheboygan, Wis., who received his bachelor of science degree from Marquette in 1941.

"My taste of the scholastic system of philosophy at Marquette," wrote Ensign Sullivan, "left me with ambitions of further delving into the subject. The long patrols of a submarine leave me with an opportunity, in fact an exigency, to read."

Father McGrath is assembling a library to send to him.

Slayer of Captain Is Released on Bond

By The Associated Press

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 21—Margaret Herlihy, 21, accused of murdering her husband, Capt. David D. Carr, 27, was free under a newly posted $5,000 bond today after waiving a hearing in justice court. She shot the anti-tank division captain last Saturday after, she said, he beat her during a quarrel. Assistant Prosecutor Norman Herring said the couple quarreled probably because Miss Herlihy discovered the officer's previous marriage.

RETRIBUTION AHEAD, PRESIDENT TELLS AXIS

Warns Against Barbaric Acts in Occupied Lands.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug 21—President Roosevelt warned enemy nations in a formal statement today of "fearful retribution" to come for what he called their "barbaric crimes" against civilian populations in axis-occupied countries.

The Chief Executive issued his warning after Secretary of State Hull had given him a communication from the Netherlands ambassador and the Yugoslav and the Luxemborg ministers calling attention to Nazi slayings of hostages.

Describing these as acts of desperate men, and promising that they would result in fearful retribution, the President said the government of the United States had been receiving information on axi atrocities from numerous sources and would welcome more.

When the United Nations achieve victory, he asserted, it is their purpose to make appropriate use of the amassed evidence.

The time will come, Mr. Roosevelt said, when the guilty persons will have to stand up in courts of law in countries they now are oppressing and answer for their acts.

Asked at his press conference whether he could commit the people of ravaged countries to acting through courts of law once "they got a chance" at their oppressors, the Chief Executive admitted probably he could not do so, but said he was expressing a hope that judicial processes would prevail.

Steel Workers' Strike Threatened in Canada

By The Associated Press

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Aug. 21—C. H. Millard, Canadian national director of the United Steel Workers of America (CIO) said last night "any prospect of averting a major stoppage in at least a large part of Canada's basic steel industry is slender indeed."

Millard stated he would appeal to Prime Minister MacKenzie King on behalf of 4,000 steel workers of Sault Ste Marie and as many more in Sydney, N. S. to bring about a "satisfactory and equitable solution of this most acute problem."

The steel workers of the Algoma Steel Corp. plant here and of the Dominion Steel Co. at Sydney, he said, "are no longer willing to have their rights as citizens or their needs as workers ignored."

UNION COUNTY MAN RETURNS FROM CHINA

Flying Tigers Mechanic on Way to Richwood.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Aug. 21—Word of the arrival in the United States of Gale McAllister from China where he has been a member of the American Volunteer Group of which the "Flying Tigers" became famous, is being awaited by his wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Xemas McAllister of Richwood.

He wrote his parents in July that he was returning to the United States. The Flying Tiger squadron was disbanded following the expiration of their contract for a year's enlistment on July 1. They were given the opportunity and many joined the U. S. army to remain in duty in the Far East.

Mr. McAllister is an airplane mechanic and aided in keeping the planes in shape for the Flying Tigers. This was a civilian group recruited in this country more than a year ago. He has kept in fairly close touch with his family who have received a number of cablegrams as well as letters from him.

Many exciting stories can be told by Mr. McAllister. This spring he was cut off from his detachment by the Japanese in Burma and narrowly escaped death or capture. He escaped by following the Salween river for a distance and it took a week before he found his way to China to report back to the volunteers who had given him up for dead or captured.

MARION CO. MOTHER IN JUVENILE COURT

Gets Suspended Prison Term for Neglect of Children.

A 35-year-old Marion county woman was sentenced to a year in the Marysville reformatory yesterday by Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast, following a hearing on a charge that she neglected to properly care for her two children, ages 14 and 12. The sentence was suspended under the condition that she remain at home and give the youngsters proper supervision.

She had been taken into custody Monday and remained in county jail until yesterday. The children, a boy and girl, were cared for at the Marion county detention home on Edison pike, while their mother was being held. Both were called upon to testify at the hearing.

The hearing brought out that the woman left home several weeks ago to visit her son-in-law, at a North Carolina army camp. Judge Gast reported. The son-in-law, 25 years old, allegedly departed from camp without leave to return to Marion county with the woman.

The soldier, who was taken into custody Tuesday is held in county jail pending the arrival of army authorities from Ft. Hayes.

Tug-of-War Cancelled

The Pollak Steel Co. announced today it would be unable to participate in the previously scheduled tug-of-war contest with a Hunkin-Conkey team because of excessive war work which requires plant employes to work on Sunday.

Likewise, the Marion Steam Shovel Co. officials said S.W.O.C. 1949, the firm's Industrial league softball entry, would be unable to play the Universal Cooler team as planned. The Commercial Steel Co. team will play in place of the shovel company entry, Amateur Day officials announced.

Tonight and Saturday night women of the Hunkin-Conkey Co. will maintain a booth on the court house esplanade for the sale of Amateur Day programs and tickets.

NAZI PLANES

fighter forces was the feeble counter-punch over Britain the past two nights.

Weak German Attack

The only appearance of hostile planes last night was over the south coast, the British said, and only a few attacked, briefly, causing but slight damage. One was reported shot down.

An informed British air observer said the Germans' air command was caught napping Wednesday and had to meet hundreds of RAF fighters at first with 50 Messerschmitts "which were swept away like flies." Later, he said, they called in every plane they could get from the low countries and put 400 into the air. Many of these, however, never were able to penetrate the allied air cordon and either were turned away or shot down.

The bulk of the "invasion in miniature" was made up of Canadian commandos. British commandos were the second largest group and the Fighting French and United States rangers were, relatively, only a smattering of the allied forces.

As the smoke of battle lifted from ruined Dieppe, the Vichy regime of pro-Nazi Premier Pierre Laval told newsmen that the big-scale commando raid was really an attempt to open a second front which failed "after 10 months of careful preparation."

VICHY, Aug. 21—Fernand De Brinon, Vichy representative in Paris, told a French cabinet meeting today that the allies lost 3,500 men killed and 1,800 captured at Dieppe Wednesday.

The majority were Canadians, with a few De Gaulle French, De Brinon said. He came here to give the German report on the coastal raid.

(The German high command gave no figures on allied casualties but said 2,095 prisoners were taken. There was no confirmation from any allied source of either claim.

U. S. ACTS TO AVERT ALUMINUM STRIKE

Work Stoppage Feared Over Wage Dispute.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Aug 21—Government officials struggled today to head off a strike vote by the CIO Aluminum Workers of America over the war labor board's rejection of a demand for a general dollar-a-day wage increase in the industry while they sought a peaceful solution.

A conference of 20 local union representatives from seven big plants of the Aluminum Company of America, employing 32,000 workers, was to convene for a third meeting this afternoon.

It was expected to consider formally the plea of Charles R. Ward, commissioner of the conciliation division of the U. S. department of labor, that no further strike steps be taken until he had explored possibilities of a settlement.

Ward's request came after Lieut. Col. George E. Strong of the army air corps had described the acute danger of a work stoppage in aluminum.

"This nation cannot wage a winning fight against the axis arrayed against us if we are deprived of adequate air power," the colonel told the union men. "We certainly cannot have adequate airpower if there is an interruption to aluminum supply."

The labor board's majority and concurring opinions in the wage case stated it found the aluminum workers' straight-time hourly earnings on a company-wide basis had jumped an average of 15.2 per cent between January, 1941, and May, 1942. That compared with a cost-of-living increase of 15 percent in the same period, the report said.

The number of tung trees in the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo now exceeding 700,000, a modern plant for extraction of oil is being erected.

AFL ORDERS STRIKE IN TANK ARSENAL

475 Walk Out in Dispute Over CIO.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 21—A Chrysler Corp. spokesman said today 475 AFL construction workers stopped work at the Detroit tank arsenal this morning on orders of Ed Thal, secretary of the Detroit Building Trades Council.

H. L. Weckler, Chrysler vice-president, said "this is sabotage against the government of the United States just as much as willfully holding up the production of war material or willfully destroying war material."

Weckler said Thal had threatened to call off the job all AFL men employed on expansion of the tank plant unless a subcontractor handling installation of paint booths and ovens fired CIO employes and hired 40 AFL members to do the work.

E. J. Hunt, operating manager of the tank arsenal, said that "every minute we lose at this time means that we meet our future advanced production schedules that much later."

There was no comment from union sources in the absence of Thal, who was said at his office to be in Washington.

Weckler said the practice of four companies handling Chrysler corporation's industrial metal construction work for years has been to employ AFL members for pipefitting and electrical work and CIO members for sheet metal work.

PEOPLE STILL SPEND MORE THAN TREASURY

Consumer Goods Costs Rank Higher Than War Expense.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—War spending by the treasury is higher than any government ever attained before, but official statistics showed today that American consumers still are spending more than the treasury.

Government economists figured that, despite the war production board's efforts to curtail the manufacture of consumer goods, the public spent $39,900,000,000 for all purposes in the first half of this year compared with $24,500,000,000 for the government. Capital expenditures by private business amounted to $6,000,000,000.

However, the WPB restrictions are gradually swinging the balance, and by the end of the year the economists figure that spending totals for the last half of 1942 will read $32,100,000,000 for consumers, $38,500,000,000 for government and $4,000,000,000 for private capital expenditures.

If these estimates pan out, 1942 will set a record of $151,000,000,000 of combined government and private spending for all purposes. This will be at least $30,000,000,000 more than the national income for the year, reflecting the fact that the government, particularly, is spending borrowed money.

September Tire Quotas Face Further Reduction

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—With September tire quotas facing a reduction from the August level, the office of price administration called upon local rationing boards today for the "strictest possible interpretation" of recent regulations restricting truck eligibility to essential vehicles.

In a letter to local boards, the OPA said the war production board, which allocates rubber for military, civilian and other uses, had notified it that allotments of tires must follow a downward trend for the remainder of 1942.

The OPA in July ordered that tires be denied to an estimated 200,000 vehicles carrying alcoholic beverages, soft drinks, candies, furs and other luxury goods.

Church Voting on Delegates

18 The conference will be held at Cleveland.

Rev G C. Gabriel, superintendent of the Lewisburg district, Lewisburg, Pa., delivered the conference sermon last night and also addressed the assembly yesterday afternoon. His sermon last night was preceded by a violin solo by Gene Smithson. He played "Old Refrain" accompanied by Mrs. J. W Baker. Rev. Gerald Zimmer read the Scripture and Rev. W. L. Mallet of Walbonding, O., led in prayer. The ministers' chorus sang, directed by Rev. C. D. Osborn, with Rev. Victor Peterson as the accompanist.

Sermon Topic

Rev Gabriel spoke on "Appeal of Jesus," and told his audience that this is an hour of devastation and destruction, a time when Christ should be lifted up. Answering the question, "What Does He Say Today?" Rev. Gabriel said, "He calls unto salvation; He speaks to the thirsty; He calls unto holy living; He calls to communion; He calls to service."

Continuing Rev. Gabriel told his audience that the heaviest burden to be borne is not that which the hundrum of life brings, but the burden of sin. Few of us know what it really means to be hungry yet the largest breadline in the world is made up of those who are famished for the "Bread of Life," he said. Emphasizing the call to service, Rev. Gabriel cited the life of Bishop Tucker, who, as a young artist painted the picture of a lost and fallen woman, heard a call from that picture to go out and save such women. He went to Africa and became "Bishop Tucker," he said.

Sermon on "Visions"

Basing his theme on Isaiah, sixth chapter, Rev. Gabriel spoke on "Visions" at yesterday's afternoon session. "Isaiah's vision," he said, "was a vision of God, self, need and his own responsibility."

"We need to catch anew the vision of God," he told the audience, and said that to properly interpret God the minister must have the proper conception of God. He cited as the task and privilege of the church the challenging of men everywhere to the fact of God. "The painter Millet's pictures touch folks with their naturalness and beauty because he lived in an atmosphere that was filled with God."

After emphasizing the need of a vision of the holiness of God, Rev. Gabriel said we need a measuring stick beyond ourselves. "We may look pretty good alongside of our neighbors, but how do we look alongside of God?" he asked. "When we see ourselves as Isaiah did we shall say 'woe is me for I am a man of unclean lips and dwell in the midst of people of unclean lips, for mine eyes have seen the King." A vision of the need that lies about us and our responsibility to meet that need was his challenge to the conference group.

Reports Given

Completing the afternoon program were reports of district superintendents and talks by Dr. J. S. Engle, head of the department of religion at Otterbein college at Westerville, fraternal delegate from the United Brethren Church in Christ, Mrs. C. R. Beetbower of Marion, president of the Ohio Branch of the Women's Missionary society and Dr. Raymond M. Veh of Harrisburg, Pa., of the editorial staff of Evangelical literature.

Dr. S. P. McNaught of Columbus, executive secretary of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league and Rev. Gabriel are scheduled for addresses this afternoon. The services at 7:30 o'clock tonight will open with worship and evangelistic services in charge of Rev. W. H. McLaughlin of Canton and music by the Marion church choirs. Rev. Gabriel will deliver the sermon.

Torrey A. Kautz of Toledo, lay delegate and president of the Ohio Conference Albright Brotherhood will present the work of his group Saturday morning. Rev. W. H. Herkner of Lorain will discuss conference group insurance. Rev. S. L. Shockey of Akron, will present the work of conference historical society and Rev. R. A. Sain of Columbus will discuss the conference centennial missionary fund. Business sessions will close Saturday afternoon and there will be no evening session unless unfinished business makes it necessary.

PIPE LINE BUILDERS LOCATE IN BUCYRUS

Headquarters Are Opened by Tulsa, Okla., Concern.

BUCYRUS, Aug 21—Headquarters have been established in Bucyrus by the Sheehan Pipelines Construction Co. of Tulsa, Okla., contractors for the Illinois Pipe Line Co., who will build the oil supply line through Ohio which when completed will be a part of the line reaching from Texas to New York.

Guy Fox, superintendent of construction of that portion of the line from Lima to East Sparta, was in Bucyrus today arranging details preparatory to actual construction to start next week. Equipment has been moved in and workers are being employed.

Approximately 300 men will be employed on the local section of the project, Fox stated.

The line will follow the Marion-Crawford county line east and west through this section, passing between Martel and New Winchester.

WILLKIE WILL VISIT MIDDLE EAST AREAS

Will Represent President To Present U. S. Case.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—President Roosevelt said today that Wendell L. Willkie, who opposed him for the presidency on the Republican ticket in 1940, was going to the Near East and Russia to tell those countries the truth about the American war effort and the unity behind it.

The President told a press conference that in addition to Russia, Willkie's itinerary would include Egypt, Arabia, Palestine, Syria, Turkey, Iraq and Iran.

The best thing to call him, Mr. Roosevelt said, is a special representative of the President, since he will carry letters not only to various Americans but also to officials of other countries, including Premier Stalin of Russia.

In each country, the President said, in replying to a question as to Willkie's specific mission, his principal task will be to tell them the truth, reporting as the leader of the minority party in this country. As this leader, he said, Willkie's words would carry very great weight.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the Republican chieftain had been asked to carry to these nations a comparison of what would happen to them if the axis won, and if the United Nations won.

But on their arrival Finnish officers told them: "The only way you'll get into Leningrad is by parachute." A few days later the correspondents were back in Berlin, twitting with German officials who had arranged the wild goose chase.)

Soviet counteroffensives finally threw the Germans back and spring and summer brought relief. Although pressure is still upon it, the city's position is eased.

Ban Sightseeing Trips To Conserve Rubber

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—All "rubbernecking" after Sept. 10 must be done without rubber.

Broadening an earlier order prohibiting "sightseeing by bus," defined as any rubber-tired vehicle with a capacity of 10 or more passengers, the office of defense transportation today made it applicable to "any rubber-tired vehicle propelled or drawn by mechanical power, for hire or under hire."

Under the extended order taxicabs no longer can pick up passengers "whose only interest in engaging the vehicle is to go for a sightseeing ride."

Drive-yourself automobiles cannot be rented to parties "merely wishing to take a rubberneck trip."

Privately-owned cars must not be offered for hire or rented for sightseeing purposes.

Marion Area Soldiers Showed Patriotism in Civil War Days by Volunteering Faster Than Army Could Handle Them

Truly in the second and final story about Marion and nearby communities in the early days of the Civil war as recorded in a May 2, 1861 issue of the Marion Democratic Mirror, owned by Harrison H. Scaffaffill of Marion.

* * *

Along with the bitter civilian strife that swept Marion and virtually all northern cities during the early part of the Civil war, there was a good, American brand of patriotism demonstrated by the readiness with which volunteers made up companies of soldiers to fight for the Union's cause.

The May 2, 1861, issue of the Marion Mirror reported not only the volunteer activities in towns near Marion but also listed the response in Marion county to Lincoln's call for more men.

The soldier's side of life in those days is pretty well outlined by a Marion volunteer who buried his identity in the pseudonym of "Index." He doesn't even tell how he happened to select that odd pen-name.

Many Answered Call

Here are excerpts from two letters he sent to the Mirror:

"When the train (carrying soldiers to camp) passed through Caledonia, the crowd appeared to the volunteers extremely small — I suppose for the reason that most of the warlike or patriotic men of that village are entirely engaged in getting up a company called the Caledonia Blues. You know that if it required — or I might say if any more companies can be received from Marion county, Claridon and Scott (townships) will promptly respond to the call by sending forth as brave a band of Spartans as can be raised anywhere.

"At Galion the volunteers were enthusiastically received, an old and it is said a favorite Negro could not suppress his warmest emotions for the stand the North had taken in the present crisis. He believed the North in the right, but thought that Jeff Davis had put altogether too much Saleratus in the toast (Bees).

"Joining the Wooster and Mansfield companies, we embarked on board the C. C & C. road and reached Iberia station (apparently not the Iberia community in Morrow county) in good time. At every other point the soldiers and officers had been cheered and they of course responded but when three cheers were proposed for Iberia, a profound silence prevailed — the cause for which we presume, was that there was still a 'nigger in the woodpile' in or about that neck of the woods.

War Fever in Columbus

"No further particular demonstrations were made until we reached Columbus where everything was excitement, fever high — banners flying — drums beating — companies marching into and out of camp — and in fact every demonstration calculated to satisfy all reasonable men that the 'bone and sinews' of their state men were anxious to get at somebody whom they might devour — or in other words form into the Union. There is no mistaking public opinion on this point.

"Arrived at Camp Jackson, a crowd of over 7,000 volunteers were in bold array, some being drilled, others preparing to leave tonight for Washington. It was rumored that the 4th Regiment, in which four companies go, would be sent to Cairo. But a later dispatch informs our regiment that they will not go for a few days, yet and then will be sent east.

"The camp is very well arranged considering all things. Every soldier seems more like a circus performer than anything else we can think of. We mean by this that they are as full of mirth — notwithstanding the recent war news that Jeff Davis is actually marching on Washington — as any set of people ever were at a social party or an 'apple cut.' Yet there is a firm determination on the part of all in camp to fight their way through and from the spirit manifested in all parts of the north the last 48 hours I have not a doubt but that 'things will be arranged' either by a thorough drubbing or compromise. The union will be preserved though it may cost millions of treasure and some blood.

Supplies Needed

"There are over 5,000 volunteers now knocking at the door for admission at Camp Jackson. This reminds me that our state authorities have not received them as fast as they would on account of the want of arms, clothing etc. But these essentials are being furnished every day, and in a few short hours all volunteers not already furnished will be armed and equipped according to the statute.

"In consequence of a general rush of volunteers within the last 48 hours, six companies are compelled to lodge in the state house tonight. Here too is another specimen of soldier's life in these latter days. While some have packed themselves on beds of straw and thrown themselves into the arms of Morpheus, others are quietly passing away the lonesome hour of night by a game of cards and others singing hymns and praying to the great Author of all good to avert the evils which now surround us. In one part of the building a regular prayer meeting is going off. So you see that there is a great diversity of sentiment and inclination among the volunteers, except on one question — the preservation of the Union. In another part of the state house I found more than a baker's dozen writing letters, some to their wives, others to their sweethearts or the girls they had left behind them.

"Taking it all in, things looked exceedingly squally — yet I am fully convinced that when our 'baby wakers' (artillery from Mansfield, Cleveland and Harrisburg) arrive at the points designated, the squall will subside.

"I have just learned that the 4th Regiment of Ohio Volunteers will leave tonight (April 25) or tomorrow. It is confidently believed that Gen. Beauregard will attack Washington tomorrow."

Predicted Early Peace

"In conclusion let me say to commissioned and non-commissioned officers in Co. H: Capt. A. H. Brown, First Lieu. J. J. Lafever, Second Lieut. W. H. Garret, First Sergeant W. Coulter, Second Sergeant B. Thomas, Third Sergeant, W. Camp, Fourth Sergeant P. R. Satter, First Corporal J. F. Uhler, Second Corporal A. White, Third Corporal A. Usher and Fourth Corporal S. Agt.

"Benjamin Rainey of LaRue was appointed ensign of the company and his manly bearing, prompt attention to duty has endeared him to all who know him. He leads the way, bearing the stars and stripes of his country, and his brother soldiers will testify that he will not suffer the flag to trail in the dust if he can help it. The boys feel proud of their appointment and Ben appreciates their esteem and good feeling toward him.

"The camp today presents a scene I am incapable of describing. While some are praying, in squads of 20, others are marching and countermarching, others playing ball and a goodly number write letters etc.. None but those who have 'been to war' can form the least idea of the excitement now prevalent in the camp—what I mean by excitement is that everyone almost seems to be putting in his time at that which seems to suit him best and that too, on a large scale.

"The feed for the volunteers is about the same as that furnished to the U. S. Army—strong but substantial. The guard house, an institution calculated for those who step over the mark etc. has been pretty liberally patronized, yet not so much as might be expected, when you take into consideration the fact that for the last four days over 7,000 volunteers have been congregated here.

"I am happy to say that the Marion boys are in good condition and await further orders with the utmost impatience....."

Second Report

Letter No. 2 from Index was printed in the same issue of the paper. Here are excerpts from it, telling of activities in Marion county's companies:

"At this date (April 29) it is uncertain when the 4th Regiment will be ordered, yet it is confidently believed Washington city is its place of destination.

"On yesterday Capt. Godman was promoted to the office of major—this created a vacancy in his company which was filled by the election, unanimously, of Prof. E. B. Olmstead, of your place. Here let me say a word for this gentleman. Most of Capt. Godman's company were of the opinion that he was inexperienced as a 'sojer' but knowing his qualifications as a teacher, possessing the composition to drill scholars in such a way as to make them an ornament to society and a blessing to their parents and families, why then could he not drill the men in Capt. Godman's company to perform their duty as soldiers in the present crisis? (Note—Prof. Olmstead was one of Marion's earliest school superintendents.)

"Mr. Hatch also resigned the office of lieutenant and Mr. Wesley Straub of Waldo was elected in his stead. He is a gentleman whose qualifications as a military man can not be questioned—he is the man for the times—active as a cat, and he knows every move he makes.

"Mr. T. H. Dickerson was appointed orderly sergeant, a post for which he is well fitted and the boys say he suits them to a T. The following is a list of commissioned and non-commissioned officers in Co. H: E. B. Olmstead, captain; W. S. Straub, First Lieutenant; J. R. Prichard, Second Lieutenant; T. H. Dickerson, Orderly Sergeant; G. A. Mouser, R. I. Strawbridge, second and Third Sergeants; H. Boyd, C. Godman, W. Z. Davis, and J. W. King, First, Second, Third and Fourth Corporals; Ben Rainey, Ensign.

Proud of Capt. Brown

"A word as to Captain Brown and his company; I say a word, for his reputation as an officer is too well known in Marion to require a word of commendation—his company feel proud of him as a commanding officer, and with him they feel secure and will do their duty. They are equally respected for their best endeavors to assist their worthy captain.

"The following is a list of Yet in the prediction that Mr Index prefixed to the war will be settled—before the meeting of congress. Put your finger on that."

However, Mr. Index proved a better reporter than war prognosticator, for the war went on several more years.

Another little item in the same edition shows that Mr. Index didn't have much grounds to worry about patriotism in Caledonia. It reported that "A rousing Union meeting was held in Caledonia last Tuesday evening. The meeting was addressed by Messrs. Van Fleet and Carlisle, the former gentleman being the principal speaker, making the welkin ring from Northern Abolitionists and Southern fire-eaters. The Caledonia boys are alive and imbued thoroughly with the spirit of the Union."

OPA MAY CONTROL HOUSE SALES, TOO

Won't Let Landlords Get by with Unfair Contracts.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The office of price administration has served notice on landlords in defense rental areas that the government is prepared to control all sales of rental dwellings if necessary to force compliance with rent ceilings.

Paul Porter, deputy OPA administrator in charge of rents, said his office was facing a "serious enforcement problem" because of sales now being made by landlords under conditions which he said plainly indicated an intent to violate maximum rent regulations.

Many landlords, he explained, were forcing tenants to purchase the homes which they now rent, accepting promissory notes for down payments, and requiring monthly "installment" payments well above the rent now being paid.

Sales contracts in these instances are tightly drawn, Porter said, making it possible for persons selling the houses to recapture them on slight provocation. Rent regulations prohibit evictions unless the owner of the property wishes to occupy it himself, or wishes to sell it.

TOSS OF COIN DECIDES FOUR TIES IN PRIMARY

All Are Contests for Party Committee Posts.

Four deadlocks in the election of committeemen in the recent primary voting have been broken by the toss of a coin, C. G. Ritzler, clerk of the election board, announced today.

J. P. Robinson won the toss to become Republican committeeman for Grand Prairie township. He and Mrs. Mildred Francis each received seven votes.

Charles Skaggs was awarded the Republican committeeman's post in Claridon township south over Charles Smith. They received one vote each.

John T. Jones was the winner over J. J. McNeff, each having received one vote for Democratic committeeman for Bowling Green township.

Ray Dobbins was declared the victor over Ray Reamsnyder for Democratic committeeman of Scott township. Each received one vote.

Whitlow Wyatt Hurls One-Hitter As Dodgers Defeat Giants, 2-1

Johnny Mize's Homer in Ninth Is Only Hit Off Brooklyn's Ace Flinger.

By The Associated Press

THE Brooklyn Dodgers still have a little matter to settle with the St. Louis Cardinals before they will be ready for the world series, but their ace right-hander, Whitlow Wyatt, was fully prepared for the October classic as he can hope to be.

Wyatt, who never has pitched a no-hit game in his dozen years around the major leagues, came as close as possible without actually achieving it yesterday when he let the New York Giants down with one blow as the Dodgers triumphed, 2-1 in a twilight-are light game.

His only mistake was in trying to throw a fast one past big John Mize, who demonstrated that he has recovered from a recent injury by parking the ball behind the center field score board for his 20th home run.

The victory, opening an important four-game series, boosted the Dodgers' national league lead to seven games over the Cardinals, who were idle.

In the only other National league game, the Cincinnati Reds snapped a six-game losing streak by turning back the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3.

The Boston Red Sox, refusing to concede the American league flag to New York's front-running defending champs, walloped the Yankees, 7-4.

At the other end of the junior circuit, the Philadelphia Athletics took a double-header in their cellar series with the Washington Senators.

A 17-hit attack on three Washington pitchers gave the Athletics the opener, 9-2. The nightcap went 12 innings before the A's triumphed, 6-1.

The Chicago White Sox came from behind with six runs in the fifth inning to stop the St. Louis Browns, 8-5, in a night game.

Indians Oppose White Sox in Night Tilt

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Indians, beginning tonight, have a chance to avenge their lamented slump against the club that started it—the Chicago White Sox.

Winding up their last western road trip in the Windy city, the Indians dropped three straight to the White Sox. Since then, they have won only two games in eight starts.

Mel Harder will be seeking his 10th victory against Edgar Smith in the opener of the four-game series.

Still limping from an ankle injury, Harder expected the soreness would be out of the leg in time to take the mound assignment. He was struck in the right ankle last Monday by a smash off Don Gutteridge's bat in a game against St. Louis.

Harder had a special reason for wanting to be in shape tonight. He was charged with the 11 to 1 loss in the opener of that hapless series in Chicago. Smith has won three and lost 10.

Red Birds Defeat Toledo, 3-2; Keep AA Margin Intact

By The Associated Press

With Kansas City pushed into the background—temporarily at least—Columbus and Milwaukee were determined today to make it a two-team race for the American Association pennant.

The Red Birds remained a game and a half in the lead by nudging out Toledo, 3 to 2, in a 10-inning battle last night, while the Brewers dissolved the Blues, 6 to 2, to close the series in Kansas City with four wins in a row.

Augie Bergamo was Columbus' hero. He clouted his first homer of the season in the eighth inning to knot the score, 2-2, and in the extra 10th he doubled to drive Preacher Roe across with the winning score.

Only one of Toledo's runs was earned as Roe pitched superb ball for his fourth win of the year and his mates backed him up with a 10-hit assault against Johnny Marcum buoyed by George Myatt's four blows.

Woody Rich hurled his first shut out of the season as his four-hitter gave Indianapolis a 3-0 decision over Louisville.

Best whitewash job of the night went to Harry Kelley, veteran Minneapolis righthander. He staged a two-hit fest to bent St. Paul, 2 to 0, as the Millers clinched the inter-city series.

$25,000 IS O. S. U. WAR BENEFIT PLEDGE

All Big 10 Schools Will Make Donations.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—College football, which one coach said made its biggest war contribution "in turning out well-conditioned young men for the country's armed forces," also intends to help financially.

Already the University of Oklahoma has dipped into its athletic funds for a $50,000 war bond. Ohio State has promised $25,000 and the military and naval academies have sold the broadcast rights for their game for $100,000 with the sum going to the two services' relief funds, an Associated Press survey discloses.

The Ohio State contribution is to be a part of the Big Ten plan in which the nine football-playing members of that circuit have promised to earmark all receipts above expenses for overseas touchdowns. Ohio State later announced that no matter how small its grid profits might be, its check would be for at least $25,000.

Virtually every school is planning to aid financially, somehow, although none knows if the sport will be played in 1943.

Another practice which will be almost nation-wide is that of letting uniformed men obtain seats at cut rates. Almost all schools have set 50 cents as the price for a ticket to service men.

S. W. O. C. 1949 Wins Industrial League Crown; Universal Cooler Ends Second

An 11-4 win last night at Lincoln park over the Commercial Steel Co. team gave S. W. O. C. 1949 the Industrial league softball championship. Last night's contest was the final for both teams. A postponed game between Hunkin-Conkey No. 2 and Huber is the only remaining Industrial league tilt.

Woody Walters, masterful veteran hurler, limited the Commercial team to two hits. Aiding his brother's victory, Fritz Walters blasted out four hits, including a homer, in four times at bat.

Universal Cooler wound up second best in league play with a 6-3 win at the expense of the Hunkin-Conkey No. 2 squad at the Uncapher avenue Marion Steam Shovel diamond. Bill Everly allowed the losers six hits, including Pete Bascos' four-base clout.

The Huber team got eight hits in fashioning a 14-6 win over the Osgood team at Garfield park.

The Holabird & Root team had little trouble in disposing of the General Excavator team, 6-2, at Presidents field. McClymonds, credited with the victory, allowed only four hits. Ramsey with a home run and a double and Clyde Everly with two hits in two trips to the plate led the Holabird & Root offense. Hucker of General Excavator had two hits in three times at bat.

Maher To Head Western Conference News Bureau

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—Jim Maher of Cleveland, has taken over the directorship of the Western Conference Service bureau, succeeding Bill Reed who entered the United States navy last June. Maher formerly worked on the Cleveland Plain Dealer sports staff and for four years was on the staff of the Ohio State university athletic news service.

CLEVELAND RAMS TO PLAY STEELERS IN EXHIBITION CONTEST

War Relief To Profit from Football Game at East Liverpool.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 21—Two rookies will be in the Cleveland Rams' starting lineup tonight for their war benefit exhibition game with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Warren Plunkett, late of Minnesota, will be at quarterback, which with the Rams is a blocking position, and Ben Hightower of Sam Houston State Teachers college, Tex., will draw the assignment at right end.

Also on view for the first time will be Cleveland's new offensive formation, which Coach Dutch Clark devised in the manner of the Chicago Bears' T formation. In this system the quarterback does not handle the ball, each play starting with a direct pass to the fullback, tailback or right halfback.

These positions will be occupied at the start by Corby Davis, lineplunging fullback, by pass-flinging Parker Hall at left half and Dante Magnani at right half.

The Rams and the Steelers are not scheduled for a National league clash this season, and tonight's fray will be their only 1942 meeting.

Johnny Wilson, the Rams' regular right end, was injured in scrimmage last week, giving Hightower the starting berth. On the left side of the line Cleveland will have Jim Benton at end, Chet Adams at tackle and Riley Matheson at guard. Beyond Bill Conkright at center will be Wilford Thorpe at right guard, and tackle Boyd Clay.

Canton Defeats Erie, 4-1, in Mid-Atlantic Loop

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Aug. 21—Canton defeated Erie 4 to 1 last night to tie the Sailors for third place in the Mid-Atlantic league.

The battle for first place remained unchanged as league-leading Charleston whipped Springfield 14 to 4 and second-place Dayton downed Zanesville 8 to 1.

43RD TARGET EVENT BEGINS TODAY WITH PRELIMINARY TRIALS

Four Premier Marksmen, Now in Army, Will Compete in Grand American.

By The Associated Press

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 21—Clay targets, leaden pellets and the roar of 12-gauge shotguns filled the air along the Amateur Trapshooting Association's quarter-mile firing line today as the 43rd annual Grand American got under way.

The Friday, Saturday and Sunday programs called for "tune-up" events as the nation's premier marksmen sharpened shooting eyes for the championship races running from Monday through next Friday.

While the 1941 field of 1,100 shooters was not expected to be duplicated—because of the war—General Manager Ray Loring of the ATA said he had reservations from every state in the union, all of Canada's provinces, Cuba and the Canal Zone.

Four of the clay target sport's finest, now gunnery instructors in the army, he expected to get special leave to compete in the game's "world series." They are Lt. Joe Hiestand of Hillsboro, O., who has won everything in the book except the Grand American handicap, holder of the 16-yard long run record of 1179, now stationed at Mouletrie, Ga.; Capt. Phil Miller of French Lick, Ind., now at Las Vegas, Nev.; Lt. Vic Reinders, the chemistry professor from Waukesha, Wis., who won the all-around title last year, stationed at Miami Beach, Fla., and Maj. J. B. Grier, the professional star from Rockland, Dela., who is stationed at Governor's Island, N. Y.

Something new has been added to the big shotgun show, for the Grand American handicap with its $10,000 or more in prize money, will be contested over the 200-target route. For 42 years since the fixture was inaugurated, it has been a 100-target event, and only two recognized stars have won it.

ANGELO, CARONE IN TAG TEAM VICTORY

Defeat Steele and Billins in Armory Mat Feature.

Martino Angelo, Canadian-born Italian, and Fred Carone of Boston, Mass., teamed to defeat Jackie Steele of Centerville, Ia., and Nick Billins of Athens, Greece, in the featured tag team match on last night's Armory wrestling card.

Angelo downed Steele in the first half of the initial fall and Carone completed the fall, pinning Billions with a body slam in 22 minutes. At one time during the fall all four fighters and Referee Les Fishbaugh were locked in a merciless fist fight.

Highlight of the second fall, which went to the team of Angelo and Carone in the same manner as the first, was when Referee Fishbaugh was virtually hurled from the ring by one of the burly gladiators. At this time all four contenders again engaged in a fierce battle. The second and deciding fall lasted only 18 minutes.

Ivan Kalimkoff avenged a precious loss to Flash Clifford by downing the ex-Clyde Beatty animal trainer in the added semi-final feature. Clifford won the first fall in 13 minutes with a step-over toe-hold, but Kalimoff notched the second and third falls with a pair of full nelsons. The last two falls lasted only 12 minutes.

Lords Softball Team Defeats Howard 10-2

The Lords Jewelry softball team scored a 10-2 win over the Howard All-Stars in a night game at Howard last night. Harold Millisor, the local's ace moundsman, allowed only three hits, walked three and fanned 11. Millisor also hit a double in the seventh inning as the locals scored seven runs on six hits, two walks and one error.

Summary:

Lords Jewelry 020 170 0—10 10 0
Howard A.-S. 000 020 0— 2 3 5

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Looks as if the two all-star teams will have to play all the army's "big league" football this season... Yesterday's order cancelling competitive football for the air corps technical training school not only wiped out the Keesler field program, but it provided a hint as to what may be going on in other branches. Maybe you noticed that Camp Lee, Va., scheduled several good college teams, then called the whole thing off to concentrate on intra-camp sports, and Camp Shelby, Miss., cancelled its program, which included a tussle with the Cleveland Rams when it was discovered that maneuvers were due in mid-season... And Fort Knox, Ky., still hasn't landed a "name" coach although it has a schedule and the team is practicing.

• • •

Incidental Items—Tani Mauriello goes against Jimmy Bivins in Cleveland's next big fight show, getting the spot declared open when Anton Christoforidis fizzled against Nate Bolden last week, but the Sept. 10 date they agreed upon will be changed... The reason Ben Jones is shipping Whirlaway to Camden for the Trenton handicap Aug. 29 instead of keeping him at Saratoga to run for just much dough in the Saratoga handicap is that Ben wants to do a favor for a friend who is an official of the Garden State track ...The world series broadcast will include short-wave transmission around the world to reach American soldiers and sailors on foreign service. The Chicago Bears have used George Wilson as a decoy on forward pass plays so often that his teammates call him "Quack-Quack."

• • •

Today's Guest Star—Howard Preston, Cleveland News: "Cleveland wins a second place award in a national contest to the elimination of needless noise and it is understood that the fact that Indian rooters had nothing to cheer about this year didn't influence the achievement."

New Crawford County Salvage Head Named

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 21—The appointment of J. W. Overhold of the Ohio Power company as chairman of the Crawford county salvage board was announced today by J. C. Hull, civilian defense executive. Overhold replaces R. E. Limpach who resigned because of war time employment demands on his time.

The new chairman will continue the plan of the board to place five trucks in the county for the purpose of picking up scrap metal. Stops will be made at every farm in the county, the new chairman said.

Recent figures from national headquarters disclosed that Crawford county was high on the list in the amount of scrap collected since the beginning of the campaign.

CLASS 1-B MEN

MARYSVILLE, Aug. 21—Between 30 and 75 Union county selectees who have been classified in 1B will be made available for service by the ruling that this classification will be abolished, local officials announced Thursday. With this classification being abolished, the men will be placed in 1A or 4F, meaning that they either are available for service or unfit for military duty.

Lions Club To Sponsor Circus at Mt. Gilead

MT. GILEAD, O., Aug 21—Members of the Mt. Gilead Lions club will sponsor the Mills Brothers circus in Mt. Gilead on Saturday afternoon and night.

Funds raised from the sale of tickets will go for civic improvements according to Kenneth Rexford, club president. As a project this summer the club has installed playground equipment on the grounds of the recreation center.

CRESTLINE TO OPEN SERVICE CENTER

Group Organized To Aid Soldiers, Sailors.

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Aug. 21 — Roy Payne, has been elected president, Mrs. John Moran, vice president, and Miss Addie Blocker secretary-treasurer of an organization to conduct a service center for men passing through Crestline while on furlough or on leave from military duty.

The group will work temporarily from the Y.M.C.A. Judging from experience of others operating service centers, the cost is estimated at $60 per week which the officers have begun to raise through contributions of $1 each from business men and individuals willing to contribute.

The new quarters will open Monday with the Ladies Aid of Trinity Lutheran church in charge from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Tuesday, St. Joseph Catholic; Wednesday, Calvary Reformed; Thursday, English Lutheran; Friday Methodist; Saturday, Presbyterian and Sunday the B. of L. F. and E. and the B. of R. T. auxiliaries will be in charge.

Morrow Co. War Bond $28,018 in Two Weeks

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, O., Aug. 21—Sales of war bonds in the county for the first two weeks in August totaled $28,018.75 according to the report of Dr. C. B. Robinson, chairman of war bond sales in Morrow county.

Sales for the first quarter of the month amounted to $2,950 in series E bonds and $17,600 in series G bonds. During the second quarter sales were $7,168.75 in series E bonds.

Dr. Robinson also announced that the women's auxiliary of the American Legion posts in the county will sell war bonds and stamps from booths at the Morrow county fair.

ONE FROM PUBLIC AT HEARING ON BUDGET

Education Association Head Approves School Levy.

One person, James H. Smith, president of the Marion Education association, appeared at the public hearing of the Marion city school budget for 1943, held yesterday afternoon at the school administration building on South Prospect street.

Supt. E. E. Holt and J. D. Torrance, clerk of the board, went over the details of the budget with Mr. Smith. The latter agreed with the board in its request for an additional two-mill levy for school operating purposes, and urged that every effort be made to explain the need for the levy to the public.

The budget will now go before the school board for final approval, probably at its September meeting, and then will be sent to the county budget commission where it will be used along with budgets of other political and school subdivisions as the basis for making up real estate tax rates for next year.

Details of the budget were published in The Star on Aug. 4 following a board meeting at which the budget was given approval for public hearing.

SAVE SHIPPING SPACE

By International News Service

CAMP STEWART, Ga.—Saving at least 40 per cent of vital shipping space has been simply accomplished by a new means of packing shoes, the quartermaster corps at Camp Stewart revealed. Individual shoe boxes and tissue paper have been eliminated from the packing cases while the cases are lined with waterproof paper. Because more shoes can be enclosed in the packing cases, a total shipment requires about 40 per cent less space.

Construction is planned in Uruguay of a plant for the dehydration of 240,000 eggs daily for the production of whole egg powder.

Only 15 feet long, a Chicago inventor's machine is intended to test the speed, carrying ability and other qualities of golf balls.

WHEAT PRICES HOLD TO NARROW RANGE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 — Wheat prices fluctuated within a range of only ½ cent a bushel today and other grains except corn held to a correspondingly narrow span as the market reflected contraction of trading interest because of the uncertainty as to the nature of anti-inflation proposals now being drafted in Washington.

Reports that some government officials were studying plans that would mean eventual virtual stabilization on farm prices around parity levels chilled both buyers and sellers. Traders said there was no incentive for investment or speculative action until this situation is clarified and as a result the market was guided almost entirely by small scale commercial transactions.

RAILS, RUBBER HELP MARKET

Issues Show Strength Although Some Other Stocks Tend To Falter.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Buying of rails and rubbers bolstered selected leaders in other parts of today's stock market although faltering tendencies were shown by many issues.

While dealings were sluggish throughout, gains of fractions to a point or so were well distributed near the fourth hour.

Bonds were steady and commodities a trifle uneven.

Shares at new tops for the year included U. S. Rubber, Goodrich common and preferred, Firestone Tire, Union Pacific and Texas & Pacific. Resistant were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Schenley, DuPont, Marshall Field and Anaconda.

In the curb mild support was received by Gulf Oil, Sherwin-Williams, International Petroleum and Cuba. Atlantic Sugar. Occasional losers were pantepec and American Cyanamid "B."

Revival of interest in rubber company securities was attributed mainly to predictions that, with the problem of synthetic manufacture virtually solved, the big processors in this field, in addition to heavy production of war materials, might be expected to profit substantially by expanding private and governmental demand.

Want Cox To Keynote Democratic Convention

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Aug. 21—Former Governor James M. Cox of Dayton is being sought as keynoter for the Democratic state convention, tentatively set for Sept. 18 and 19.

This was disclosed last night by John McSweeney, Democratic nominee for governor, before the Stark County Democratic central committee.

Former Governor George White and former Senator Vic Donahey also are expected to participate in the convention.

Discussing his campaign, McSweeney said:

"I do not want any McSweeney for governor clubs.

"I want to work with you and the party. I believe that if we work together that way, we will march to victory as a solid phalanx."

Railroad President Again Indicted by U. S.

By The Associated Press

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 21—George P. McNear Jr., president of the Short Line Toledo, Peoria and Western Railroad was under federal indictment a second time today on charges growing out of a strike which resulted in government seizure of the road last spring.

Found innocent on another charge by a federal court jury last April, McNear yesterday was accused of violating sections of the national railway labor act by checking off dues for a "company union and by failure to post notices for railroad employes informing them of the act's provisions.

Another federal indictment yesterday charged three trainmen with violating the federal train wrecking act and the national explosives act by attempting to blow up a T. P. & W. bridge during the strike. These defendants were Paul Brokaw of Cleveland, O., an agent for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and Harold J. Dilley and Delmar Newdigate, both of Peoria, two of the striking trainmen.

Binoculars powerful enough for watching sporting events have been invented that resemble a cigarette case when closed, and can be carried in a vest pocket.

A total of $11,686,255 has been forwarded to city and county school systems representing the third quarterly payment under the foundation plan. Payment to the Delaware city schools was $15,904 and the 12 school districts of the county received $40,374.

GRAVEL SUPPLY FIRM INCORPORATED HERE

New Providing Material for War Aid Depot.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state at Columbus for the Boulton Gravel & Construction Co. of Marion, The Associated Press reported today.

The incorporators are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bolton of 1043 Davids street and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Boulton of Toledo.

They have started operating a gravel pit on state route 203 about two and one-half miles north of Newmans on the road that passes the Scioto Power plant. The pit is being operated on a 15-acre tract leased from William Hedges, who lives on a farm there.

At present the firm is busy providing gravel for the Quartermaster War Aid Depot and on this job has sublet the hauling to a Zanesville concern that is operating a fleet of 30 trucks.

The concern expects to sell gravel to private concerns and individuals and possibly to engage in road construction work.

Production To Resume at Busy Dayton Plant

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Aug. 21—Production was scheduled to resume in the war-busy Brown-Brockmeyer Co. plant today after a brief walkout called to enforce a demand by an independent union for an immediate collective bargaining election.

Meanwhile, K. M. Kirkendall, representative of the CIO United Electric, Radio, and Machine Workers Union, announced that he had asked President Roosevelt to take over the plant.

Members of the B-Line Employes association, walked out yesterday but later voted to return today. Stephan A. Brown company president, said they made their decision after Arnold J. Collins, head of the union read a war department telegram urging them not to stop production.

The independent members led their jobs when the NLRB postponed an election scheduled for yesterday.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

MISS WHITLOCK [illegible] about [illegible] put her [illegible] nee bye.

"I've met [illegible] Underwood to sleep," she said.

"After a [illegible] ride, I'm sure all [illegible] sleep. [illegible] Mr. Underwood wants [illegible] her."

"Isn't [illegible] Edna thought" Carolyn [illegible], as Dicky and I [illegible] upstairs.

"You [illegible] her much," I said non-committally. Then I sat down in the room allotted to Carolyn and spoke to Dicky.

"I'll freshen up for luncheon here with Carolyn," I said, "so you can have our place to yourself for awhile."

Carolyn glowered at me, but said nothing. Ignoring her patent unfriendliness I made a hasty toilet, but stayed in the room until Dicky came for us.

The luncheon was delicious, and without incident. Carolyn made a palpable effort to act a courteous friendly role while Miss Whitlock's eyes were upon her, but later in her bedroom spoke with cold hostility.

"Will it be possible for me to have a little while alone to myself?" she asked.

"Of course!" I answered cheerily. "This room and adjoining bath are yours. You will be perfectly safe here, too, for the windows are all barred."

Locked In Her Room

"I am sure you don't want to get out," I said soothingly. "And I am sure you won't misunderstand when I tell you that I am going to lock your door on the outside."

"No, I won't misunderstand," she said icily. "It means that I am your prisoner."

"Indeed, no," I told her. "It is simply for your protection. If you will just push this button a bell will ring in the kitchen and someone will be up immediately."

"I left quickly, giving her no time to explode, and locked the door after me, then went to Dicky.

"Is she pretty sore?" he asked.

I'm afraid so, sir," I told him.

"Well, if she's trying to double-cross me again," the cabin boy replied, "she barely kept her eyes open on the way down. She'll go to sleep like a lamb."

"And I know [illegible] who are going to do the same. You're dead on your feet and so am I."

We both slept soundly until Miss Whitlock tapped. I opened the door a crack, and she said:

"Mr. Underwood is awake and anxious to see you soon. And am I right in thinking the young lady with you may be a source of excitement to Mrs. Underwood?"

"That inference is correct," I answered.

"Then if you don't mind," the nurse said, "we'll let her sleep for awhile."

"There's no hurry about the girl," I said.

As Lillian rushed into my arms when I entered, she held up her face for Dicky to kiss. Harry "bussed" me heartily, too, then he and Dicky took themselves off to Harry's quarters.

Lillian answered all my questions about the children and the farm, and we "talked a blue streak" until I suddenly said, with a start of remembrance, "Do you realize that we've been forgotten Carolyn?"

"Do you suppose she's still asleep?" Lillian asked. "If she isn't, I want to see her so much. Just think, Madge; she was one of the last to see my baby!"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Diseases Vaccine Can Check

IN THE LIST of preventable contagious diseases which I printed this week there were five diseases mentioned — whooping cough, diptheria, scarlet fever, smallpox and typhoid. Whooping cough is only about 90 per cent preventable, but is such a dangerous disease in infancy that a vaccine should be used.

For scarlet fever prevention I am not such a crusading advocate as I am of the others. In the first place scarlet fever is not very contagious—only about one-fiftieth as contagious as, let us say measles.

In a class of nurses when I used to teach the nursing of contagious disease, I would ask every one in the class who had ever had measles to hold up their hands. Practically every hand went up. Then I would ask everyone who had ever had scarlet fever to hold up their hands. One or, at most two hands would go up. It was a graphic demonstration of the comparative contagiousness of the two diseases.

Then, too, scarlet fever has been getting milder and milder during the past few decades.

Besides, scarlet fever vaccination is not quite as certain or as lasting as any of the others. It is recommended especially in institutions for children, but the recommendation does not quite have the rank of a "must."

For [illegible] old murderous [illegible] typhoid fever and smallpox, however, the order is still imperative.

Although we have been giving smallpox vaccination for 150 years and in countries where vaccination is universal and compulsory smallpox has been practically exterminated, there are still about 9,000 cases yearly in the United States. Only 10 states have compulsory vaccination laws for smallpox. Our record is an intolerable contrast with the 11 cases and no deaths recorded in the Dominion of Canada.

As to the duration of small pox immunity, about which many people write me, note that in the chart it is recommended that smallpox vaccination be given at about the age of nine months and then repeated at 6 years. It was found by Loy and Husband, working among college students, that those who had only one vaccination showed a susceptible reaction in a certain percentage of cases while those who had two vaccinations showed none.

Typhoid fever vaccination is also an imperative.

There are, incidentally, a number of other successful vaccinations, but they are not necessary for school children in a temperate climate. For the forces of the Army and Navy, however, tetanus (lockjaw) and yellow fever are regularly used, and typhus immunization is a possibility.

Peach Crop Early In Port Clinton Orchards

By The Associated Press

PORT CLINTON, O., Aug. 20—Ottawa county peaches have ripened two weeks earlier than last year's harvest, and early varieties such as South Havens and Golden Jubilees already are gone.

"With continuation of this weather, the entire peach crop will be picked, packed and gone by Labor day," Lester D. Luchsinger, manager of the island and Gypsum Fruit Co., said today.

The county peach crop was estimated at 400,000 bushels before a hail storm a week ago Sunday leveled about 75,000 bushels. Besides peaches, growers also are harvesting pears, apples and plums.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, Aug. 22

AN UNUSUALLY strenuous and aggressive state of affairs is presaged by the mutual and lunar aspects prevailing. This high pressure activity may characterize business as well as purely personal objectives. The stress, however, may be greatest in an effort to put over new and ambitious projects of major importance and which should thrive by indomitable persistence without the cooperation or approbation of employers, elders and superiors.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which the affairs should go forward under high tempo and with practical constructive ability and skill centered upon the launching of new and ambitious projects. Strenuous efforts, sound plans and prudence in essential outlay of funds and energies should be pushed to desired goals despite want of cooperation of influential persons.

A child born on this day should be energetic, enterprising and have much initiative and executive ability, with sound judgment and ambitions that should culminate in personal satisfaction.
